Ag Progress Days were held this week with record crowds on Wednesday. Various educational presentations and tours along with 300 commercial exhibits provided interesting fare for attendees. The annual event has been located at the research farm since 1968. This scene from on top of the Harvestore silo gives a feel for how the exhibit area appeared from a birds-eye view. Photo by Vern Achenbach.

German Ag Diplomat: German Farmers Want Free Trade

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — While visiting Penn State University's annual Ag Progress Days event on Tuesday, Germany's first secretary of agriculture to the German Embassy to the United States said that he wanted American farmers to know that German farmers desire free trade.

Hans Christoph von Heydebrand, first secretary of agriculture (agricultural attache) at the German Embassy in Washington D.C., said that his country's farmers want American farmers to know that they are undergoing painful cuts in government price support levels, bringing them in line with market demand prices and putting them under financial strain, similar to what American counterparts are experiencing, in an attempt to create open and free trade with the U.S.

Specifically, von Heydebrand said that he wanted to, "Draw (the) attention of the U.S. farmer to the first major reform of (German) agricultural policy."

According to von Heydebrand, a recently approved policy calls for a 30-percent reduction in all agricultural support prices over the next three years.

He said that reduction comes on top of an already existing 30-percent reduction in grain support prices that have occurred since the mid-1980s. The effect of changes in grain prices has been felt throughout the German agricultural and food industry, von Heydebrand said, and the further reductions are also expected to impact greatly on the nation's agricultural industry.

The German agricultural diplomat, who was visiting Ag Progress Days at the invitation of the group RULE, which stands for Penn State University's Pennsylvania Rural Leadership Program, said the three-year, 30-percent support price reduction is to occur with a first-year, 15-percent reduction followed by smaller reductions over the following two years.

Fruit Tree Research At Ag Progress Looks At IPM

Infestation, Environmental Data Essential If Growers Reduce Pesticide Use

ANDY ANDREWS

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Fruit growers beware. If you're going to cut back on pesticide use through integrated pest management (IPM), you better get the facts about pest infestation, disease thresholds, and weather factors in your orchard.

"The trick is to learn when you can allow a little bit of damage on the leaves and still protect the fruit and reduce the pesticide levels," said Jim Travis, associate professor of plant pathology, during the tree fruit research tour on Tuesday morning at Ag Progress Days.

Travis said that fruit growers should consider scouting not only for insects and disease occurence in the crop, but understand that timing is critical for application.

As part of their studies, plant disease and pest experts at Penn State are looking into what the threshold levels should be for applying fungicides and insecticides. Also, they are looking at disease-resistant varieties of fruit trees to see how they hold up in fighting fungus disease and what kind of insects they might attract.

In one test, utilizing M-9 dwarf root stock in an apple orchard with a hedgerow trellis system, trees were under attack from an insect called the spotted tentiform leafminer. The 7-year-old trees have leaves that bear the signature of the miner, "an insect that makes a 'mine' in the leaf," said Ed Rajotte, associate professor of entomology at Penn State.

A small moth lays eggs on the apple leaf, and a caterpillar emerges. The caterpillar is so small, said Rajotte, that it's able to go "in between the upper and lower layers of the leaf and makes a little tunnel inside the leaf."

The insect specialist said that if growers have a lot of the leaf miners, "it's going to affect the quality and the quantity of your crop."

Growers should not spray for the miner until there are at least two mines per leaf. In many cases at the site, only one mine was spotted, which is far from the point where the crop will be harmed, according to Rajotte.

But pesticide sprays aren't always necessary to handle insect infestation in crops. The researchers are looking at biological controls, also, as part of an integrated pest management package. In one case, miniature beatles, called Stethorus punctum, are tested in eating the European red mite, a common apple pest.

One of the ways that growers can reduce the current levels of fungicides and get control is through the use of planting disease-resistant varieties. There are several under research, which

Ice Cream Churn-Off Brings $300 Prize

LOU ANN GOOD

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Beneath pounding hot sunrays, Elsie Smith and her clan of nine churned their way to success with their homemade ice cream Orange Sicle Cream.

For four years, Elsie and her grandchildren have entered Ag Progress Day's Ice Cream Churn-Off. After a third place standing last year, the clan churned their way to the top and $300 in cash on Wednesday.

Second-place and $150 went to last year's first-place winner Harold and Linda Geise of Watsontown for their Very Berry Ice Cream.

Third-place and $100 went to Albert Hack of Berwick. It was the first time Albert, who milks 65 Guernseys on his 350-acre farm, entered competition. "I'm always interested in dairy promotion," said Albert, who is a former director of PA Dairy Promotion Board.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, August 18, 1993

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged. The trade sentiment ranged steady to cautiously steady, mostly steady. Movement of cartoned eggs into retail channels was light to fair. Supplies of extra large and large were adequate or available if needed; mediums were in close balance to tight. Prices for nest run breaking stock trended lower in the Central States; checks and undergrades were unchanged. Trading and demand was fair. Offerings were fully adequate. Most breakers worked with adequate supplies from standing commitments. The undertone was barely steady. Trading levels for light type hens in the Southeast had yet to develop. Offerings were adequate. Demand ranged moderate to good. The undertone was at least steady.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, August 18, 1993

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds remained sluggish. Seller offerings were readily available and slow to clear. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were generally desirable to heavier than desired. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to mostly 1 cent lower at 53 to 69 cents; however, extra supplies were open to negotiation. Trade sentiment was weak. In the parts complex, all items were more than sufficient to handle the limited buying interest.

New York & Phila. Frozen Egg

Tuesday, August 17, 1993

The market tone was about steady with underlying sentiment becoming increasingly cautious. Trading continued spotty as buyers resisted the higher asking prices. Raw materials were usually fully adequate with some breakers reporting quality less than desirable. Floor stocks were in good balance to easily handle current dealer needs.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.

Wednesday, August 18, 1993

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY ADVANCING WHEAT PRICES HIT A SNAG WEDNESDAY. CORN AND SOYBEANS FIRED A VOLLEY EARLY AT THE BOARD OF TRADE, BUT THEN FELL BACK TO CLOSE LOWER AGAIN. WHEAT TWO TO FIVE CENTS LOWER, EXCEPT MINNEAPOLIS 24 CENTS HIGHER AS WHEAT QUALITY REPORTS PERSIST OUT OF THAT AREA. CORN ONE TO THREE CENTS LOWER. SORGHUM ONE TO FOUR CENTS LOWER. SOYBEANS ONE TO THREE CENTS LOWER. GRAIN AND SOYBEAN PRICES ABOVE A YEAR AGO. A THIS TIME IN 1992 CROPS LOOKED GOOD AND A BUMPER HARVEST NO SURPRISE TO ANYONE. THIS YEAR COLD WET SPRING, LATE PLANTINGS, LATE MATURING CROP, FLOODS OVER MUCH OF NORTHERN PLAINS AND MIDWEST, DROUGHT IN SOUTHEAST, AND NOW EARLY FROST WORRIES ALL PUT A QUESTION MARK IN THIS YEARS ESTIMATED PRODUCTION. CORN AND SOYBEAN INSPECTED FOR EXPORTS ABOVE A YEAR AGO. FLOODS THAT TIED UP BARGE AND RAIL- ROAD MOVEMENT PRESENTED TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS, ESPECIALLY TO THE GULF COAST. NEW CROP BIDS CORN FIVE TO TEN CENTS OFF AND BEANS 10-15 CENTS LOWER PER BUSHEL THAN CURRENT CASH MARKET. VERY FEW BOOKINGS OR CONTRACTING OF NEW CROP BEANS OR CORN REPORTED. AUGUST TRADITIONALLY MONTH FARMERS CLEAN OUT BINS AND GET READY FOR NEW CROP STORAGE. HOWEVER BEANS AND CORN IN STRONGER THAN USUAL HANDS THIS YEAR, ESPECIALLY IN FLOODED AND DROUGHT AREAS. WHEN BEANS JUMPED UP OVER 7.00, THIS SPOILED MANY PRODUCERS.

EXPORT NEWS: JAPAN BOUGHT 138,091 TONNES OF WHEAT; 19,047 TONNES DARK NORTHERN SPRING WHEAT; 47,141 TONNES WESTERN WHITE AND 10,000 TONNES HARD RED WINTER FOR OCTOBER SHIPMENT. THE PHILIPPINES BOUGHT 7,500 TONNES NORTHERN/DARK NORTHERN SPRING WHEAT UNDER EEP FOR SEPTEMBER SHIPMENT.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, August 18, 1993

Trucklot buying interest was very light and disappointing.

Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were irregularly distributed. Larger volume producers had fully adequate supplies and offered product at very competitive prices. Smaller volume producers had adequate supplies. Demand was very light today but most accounts booked regular orders for tomorrow. Buyers bid lower for late week needs. The market undertone was quite soft. Line run breasts were readily available. Prices trended lower and buyers continued very cautious. Dark meat items were available. Wings cleared but demand slowed from early week.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

WOMEN'S EQUALITY DAY, AUGUST 26.

ONLY THE BEGINNING

On a quick trip across the radio dial today you'll find a wide cross-section of offerings, from various types of music and sports to often innovative advertising. People frequently notice that they can identify an advertising jingle from just a few notes as they flip through the stations But the possibility (and impact) of this kind of brand name recognition was not immediately evident to the early radio industry, or its prospective clients. Radio's first commercial was aired on August 28, 1922, over station WEAF in New York. The Queensboro Realty Corporation of Jackson Heights, New York, sponsored the spot to promote Hawthorne Court, a group of apartments in Queens, and they paid the going rate $100 for ten minutes of air time

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Try a 50/50 mixture of borax and powdered sugar to eliminate ants, but keep it away from children.

EARTHWISE

Sixty percent of a commercial building's electricity is used for lighting and air conditioning Since lights generate heat which in turn raises air conditioning needs, energy-conserving lighting is especially important A study by the California Energy Commission showed that in a typical Fresno office, every 100-watt savings on lighting meant an additional 38-watt savings on air conditioning Solutions range from the simple (using a desk lamp instead of overhead lights) to state of the art (microelectronic sensors)

CORN SCRAMBLE

8 eggs
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons margarine
2 cups cooked corn, cut from cob
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon thyme

In medium bowl, beat together the eggs and water and set aside Sauté onion and pepper in margarine until just tender Add corn and seasonings to skillet and mix well Add the eggs and cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until eggs are set Serve immediately

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Heavy rain from possible offshore hurricane then clearing and warming with a few showers remaining

SOUTHEAST: Showery and hot, sunny and hot Florida with rain central and east

MIDWEST: Very cool, with widely scattered showers; clear and very warm then rainy and cooler.

NORTHWEST: Clear and hot then rainy and cool, finally clearing

Regulation Based On Sound Information

The U.S. Animal Welfare Act authorizes the U.S. Department of Agriculture to regulate the care and treatment of animals used for research or exhibition, sold as pets at the wholesale level or transported in commerce. The act also has record-keeping provisions to ensure compliance. The act does not apply to farm animals used for production purposes. But some critics of the current confinement livestock production systems are pressing to extend the act to cover farm animals.

Regulations for the care and welfare of farm animals need to be based on research and education, not emotions. James Glosser, VMD, told the meeting of the American Society of Animal Science that before we regulate, we need to know what needs to be regulated and how it needs to be regulated.

Right now, 98 percent of the population is non-agrarian and their value systems are much different than those held by people involved in livestock production. This means people involved in animal agriculture need to educate the rest of the nation. "We need to make an effort to reach out and tell our story," Glosser said. "We need to correct the misinformation that's out there about how animals are raised and used."

Not every farmer cares for animals in the best way, and livestock producers and associations need to use peer pressure to make sure producers use accepted practices for raising and caring for animals. We should not need government regulation to have this done.

Some livestock production practices may need to be eliminated or changed. It's in the interest of animal agriculture to assess actions that are abhorrent to society or dangerous to animals. If we've researched an issue and debated it and still find the need for regulation, then that's the time to regulate.

Let's hope we don't regulate the livestock industry based on emotion. Regulation must be based on sound information.

To Examine Nitrates And Reproduction

In recent years, there has been concern about potential problems associated with elevated levels of nitrates in feedstuffs.

Frequently, nitrate toxicity is implicated as the cause of lowered conception rates and abortion. Results of research designed to examine the effect of nitrate-nitrite toxicity on reproduction have been inconclusive. Abortions and increased services per conception have been reported in some studies, but not in others.

When other signs of toxicity appear, abortion may occur. However, there is only a remote possibility of abortion occurring without other signs of toxicity. It should be noted that abortion is likely to occur with marginal levels of nitrates when other contaminates such as mycotoxins are also present.

To Understand Nitrates

The concept of nitrate-nitrite toxicity is complex, according to Dr. Michael O'Connor, Penn State Department of Dairy and Animal Science. The type of diet, rate of intake of feeds containing nitrates, and physiological state of the animal all affect the response to consumption of feedstuffs high in nitrates.

Clinical signs of toxicity are related to anoxia (lowered tissue oxygen levels). These include rapid or difficult breathing, abnormal muscle activity, discoloration of mucous membranes, and high levels of methemoglobin in the blood.

If nitrates are suspected to be a problem, test all forages and water for nitrates. Determine the total amount of nitrates consumed from forage, concentrates, and water. Feedstuff with higher levels may be used if they are blended with feeds low in nitrates. This will reduce the total amount of nitrate consumed in a single meal.

Stored forages with less than 1,100 ppm nitrate-nitrogen (NO3-N) may usually be fed free choice. More detailed information and guidelines about nitrate toxicity is available in dairy extension fact sheet DAS 92-107, "Prevention and Control of Nitrate Toxicity in Cattle" (PENpages 08902196).

To Be Aware Of Zoonosis

Zoonosis is a disease communicable from animals to man under natural conditions. The potential for human disease acquired from animals should never be overlooked when dealing with diseased animals. This includes parasites from dogs and cats and animals with diarrhea.

Some precautions include:

- Quarantine all new-arriving animals.
- Practice strict sanitation around animals with diarrhea and limit human contact with animals, especially children.
- Seek medical attention if an associated diarrhea occurs in humans.
- Avoid smoking, eating, or drinking when working with animals.
- Have well or spring tested at least twice a year for coliforms. If positive, treat the water.
- Always wash hands with soap and water before eating.

By practicing good personal hygiene, you will greatly reduce the chances of becoming a victim of zoonosis.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHO'S THE HEAD OF THE HOUSE?
August 22, 1993

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 5:21 - 6:4
Devotional Reading:
Colossians 3:12-21

"Don't you believe the Bible?" someone asked a counselling client of mine. My client had said that a husband and wife can share both responsibility and authority in a marriage. But her questioner trotted out Ephesians 5:21-24 as proof that her view was unbiblical.

"How can I answer a question like that?" my client wanted to know. It seemed all too clear that the writer of Ephesians believes that a patriarchal family is God s will for all Christians: "Wives, be subject to your husbands... For the husband is the head of the wife..." (5:22, 23). And just to make sure we get the point: "...so let wives also be subject in everything to their husbands" (5:24).

Lots of commentators ignore or give short shrift to these verses and concentrate instead on Ephesians 5:21, "Be subject to one another out of reverence for Christ," an admonition, it would appear, to mutual subjection. But as I read on, the writer doesn't seem to be talking about mutual subjection, but the priority of the husband. Wives are counselled to "be subject," but the admonition to husbands is on an entirely different level: "Husbands, love your wives..." (5:25). Wives should "be subject" to their husbands and husbands should "love" their wives. That doesn't sound like "mutual subjection" to me.

SUBMISSION

So, I turned to my biblical commentary to see if I could find some help there. Not really, for although the commentator talked about "mutual subjection," he also went on to say some things that were normative in the church 40 years ago when this commentary was published: "A Christian husband still exercises an authority which the wife must forgo... the primary submission must perforce still devolve upon the wife" (Interpreter's Bible, Vol. 10, p. 719).

"But it's in the Bible!" some protest. Yes, and so is the acceptance of slavery (Eph. 6:5-9, Col. 3:33, 4:1), dictatorships and tyranny (Rom. 13:1, 1 Pet. 2:13,14, Heb. 13:17). So is the admonition for parents to stone to death a rebellious son (Deut. 21:21), or a daughter who has lost her virginity before marriage (Deut. 22:21). It also countenances taking captive a "beautiful woman" as one of the spoils of war (Deut. 21:10-14) and polygamy (Deut. 21:15). If the Christian must literally obey all that is in the Bible, then all of us had better prepare for major revisions in our life-style and society. I know of no Christian who lives by all these rules and permissions. Nor do I even know of anyone who advocates them.

A DIFFERENT WORLD

So, if Ephesians was written in a time when slavery, tyranny, and patriarchal families were the norm that does not mean that we have to accept these in our own time. The world of the early Church is not the world of today. I can read this passage, accentuating the positive and eliminating the negative, thus focussing on "mutual subjection" and claiming for both husbands and wives a mutual love which Ephesians enjoins only upon the husbands.

And, without stretching a point, I can see a very positive aspect to the whole passage. The writer is accepting his society as he finds it, but he also infuses it with a spirit that eventually would be the destruction of it. By focussing upon Christ, he is holding up a model that transcends questions of authority, rights and privileges: "...as Christ is head of the Church...," "as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her."

Sometime ago, someone called and wanted to speak to "the head of the house." Not entirely with tongue in cheek, I replied: "I'm sorry, Jesus can't come to the phone."

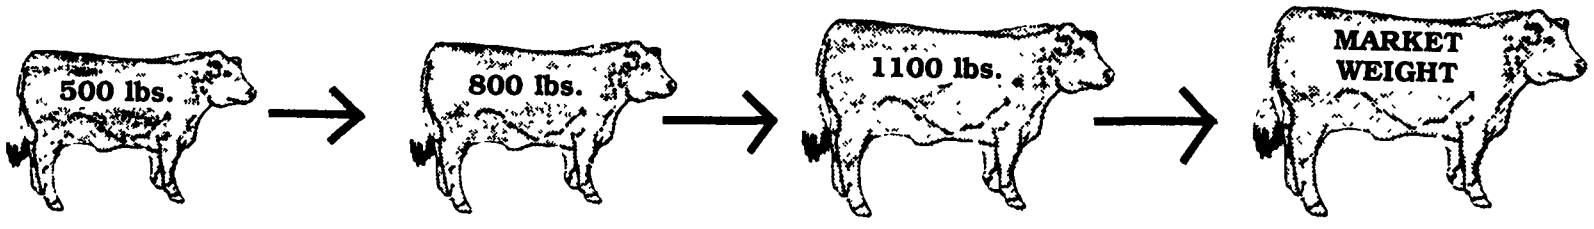
FINISH THEM FAST WITH BROWN'S BEEF SUPPLEMENTS



There is an art and a science to rapidly and economically finishing beef steers. If you provide the art, Brown's will provide the nutrition to keep beef healthy and finish them economically and rapidly with one of the following Brown's Beef Feeds.

Steer Grower Finisher	A 12% protein, all natural non-medicated feed which is high in energy, low in fiber, and balanced to supplement low quality forages. An ideal feed for the small producer with limited animals and acres.
Beef Booster B250*	This 22% protein feed is very palatable, contains no urea, and provides 250 mg. per day of Bovatec® when fed at the recommended rate of 2 lbs. per head. Bovatec is an ionophote which improves feed efficiency by selectively favoring the more efficient rumen microbes. In addition, Bovatec® provides coccidiosis protection for steers at all weights and ages.
40 Beef Supplement	A high energy, high protein supplement with 4% urea and lots of vitamins A, B and E. Perfect for feeding with ear corn or shelled corn and excellent for maintaining cows, bred heifers, and breeding bulls.
60 Beef Plus	A high protein supplement that puts an excellent finish on steers for market or for the show. This feed combines the nutritional qualities of Linseed Meal and Soybean Meal for rapid lean meat gain with the economy of a 12½ % urea based feed.
60 Steer Supplement B250*	Feed at one pound per day to add the benefits of Bovatec® to the economics of feeding a high protein supplement. Get faster gain and greater feed efficiency. Why fool with three or four separate premix packs, mineral bags and ingredient mixes when Brown's combines it all into one economical package.
60 Steer Concentrate	The economy of a non-medicated, highly fortified protein supplement without the fuss of multiple mixes. Feed at one pound per day with most finishing rations.
B-Booster 1440*	When forages and home grown grains meet or exceed protein requirements, then Brown's Bovatec® mineral pack fills the need. When fed at the rate of ⅓ to ½ lb. per head per day, this mineral mix meets the nutrient requirements of rapidly growing/finishing steers.
Dairy Lean I	A 40% non-medicated protein supplement pellet which is amino acid balanced to provide rapid lean growth for dairy steer and bulls from 350 lbs. to 600 lbs. body weight. when fed at 2 lbs/head/day with high energy forages and grains, calves will gain lean weight quickly without adding excessive frame size.
Dairy Lean II	A 30% non-medicated protein supplement pellet which is amino acid balanced and rumen buffered to finish dairy steers/bulls quickly. Feed at 2 lbs. per day with whole dry shelled corn on a free choice basis. Dairy steers can often finish to a choice grade with high dressing percentage in 13 to 15 months.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

THE GOODYEAR PIT STOP PROMISE

We are committed to handling calls with a minimum demand on the customer's time. In almost every case, we are equipped to handle problems without supervision or assistance.

We are committed to repair rather than replacement. Only if repair is impossible or uneconomical will we replace a tire.

We are equipped and committed to handling emergency or service calls in one visit. And every effort will be made to solve problems the first time out.

We are committed to fast, efficient service, and dedicated to around-the-clock response.

We will give every customer upon request, free of charge, an annual tire inspection of every on-farm vehicle.

APD Hay Show Sees Increase In Participation

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — The hay show at Penn State University's Ag Progress Days saw an increase in the number of entries with 133 to last year's 100, but participation in the annual show flucuates with the weather.

Lester Vough, a professor with the University of Maryland, has served as hay judge at the show for several years.

The hay show is broken down into three sections — field cured, partially field cured, mow finish with no hay preservatives and no forced heat; partially field cured but heat dried and no preservatives; and partially field cured and preserved (usually propionic acid, or a derivative).

Entries for heat dried hay have been low because of the higher associated cost of treating hay that way.

Of the three sections of hay, there 10 classes to each section, for a total of 30. Because of the lack of entries in the second section, 22 classes were actually judged.

In the first section, first cutting alfalfa class, Forgy Dairy, of McVeytown showed the winning hay. Greg Briggs, from Aspers, showed the second place hay, and Lee Yoder, of Lewistown came third.

In Class 2, later cutting alfalfa, Ed Harnish, of Nine Points, has the winning entry. He was followed by entries from Crystal Spring Farm, Schnecksville, and Virgil Gutshall Jr., of Blain.

In Class 3, Thomas Coffman Jr showed the first place, followed by Jere Wingert, of St. Thomas, and Greg Briggs.

Ed Harnish showed the first place Class 4 later cut mixed hay sample, followed by entries from Robert Bieber, of Nazareth, and Bruno Hoinaider II, of Latrobe.

In Class 5 and Class 6 had only one entry — Frank Snider, of St. Thomas showed the best clover hay and Mack Farms, of Pen Argyl showed the best first mixed clover grass.

In Class 7, Mack Farms showed the best first cutting grass. Second went to Virgil Gutshall, Jr. and third to Charle L. Erb.

From the left, Lester Vough, with the University of Maryland, who has served as hay judge at the Ag Progress Days hay show for several years, takes a break to discuss something with Don Overdorff, of Penn State University College of Agricultural Sciences.

In Class 8, Excelsior Farm and Jerry Fleck, Schnecksville, won first place in the grass-later cutting class. Second went to Virgil Gutshall, Jr. and third to Marcus J. Zook.

In Class 9 competition, Ray Peachey of McVeytown picked up the honors, followed by James W.

Our Reputation is Growing in Your Fields.

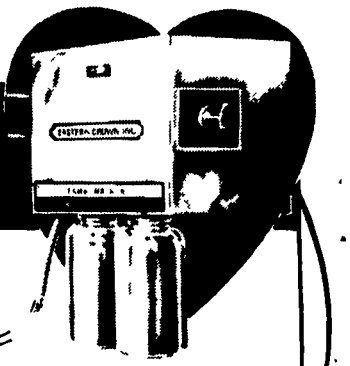
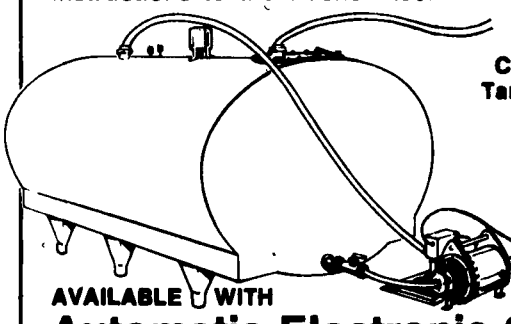
EASTERN CROWN
Tank Washer



. . . is the electronically accurate control system that translates your instructions to the washer itself.



Complete Automatic Tank Washer Includes:
Electronic Controls
1 or 2 Spinners
Pump and Hose

AVAILABLE WITH Automatic Electronic Control

Say goodbye to the inconvenience of hand washing forever. Eastern Crown has perfected a clean-up system that's entirely automatic. At the flick of a switch your unit washes, rinses, sanitizes and drains while you tend to other chores. You know it's "the best" because the Eastern Crown name is on it. Special spinners spray-clean with such force that they sanitize much more thoroughly than is possible by hand.

TWO STEP ECONOMY PURCHASE PLAN. If now is not the time to go fully automatic then take advantage of Eastern Crown's flexible plan and go semi-automatic by using a timer with the pump unit which is available separately. Add the control unit later Here's an easy way to make a major improvement at a minor expense. Eastern Crown Tank Washer is easily installed with no structural changes in your present set-up. It's the way to improve quality and increase profits . . . automatically!

LAURELTON (Union Co.) — FFA members from Central Pennsylvania recently met for the 38th Annual Central District Dairy Show. The two-day event was held on the Union County West End Fairgrounds in Laurelton.

This year's Holstein grand champion was owned by Christopher W. Shultz of the Danville FFA chapter. The owner/bred senior 2-year-old was sired by Stardell Valiant Winken. The reserve champion Holstein was owned by Douglas S. Boop of Millmont. The 4-year-old dry cow was sired by Latuch Glendell Buford. Doug is a member of the Mifflinburg FFA Chapter.

The reserve junior champion of the Holstein show was owned by Jamie R. Shultz of the Danville FFA Chapter. The Northumberland County senior calf was sired by Carnation Counselor-ET.

In Holstein county group competition, type judge Dale Olver, Penn State Dairy Extension, placed the Juniata County group first, followed by Union County second and Northumberland County third.

The Milking Shorthorn Show contained four animals which were all owned by Mary Anne Rearick of Millheim. The Penns Valley FFA member's 4-year-old was selected as the grand champion and was also the best owner bred animal of the show.

A 6-year-old Jersey owned by Lynne Rearick of Millheim was awarded the grand champion ribbon of the Jersey Show. The Penns Valley FFA member's cow was sired by Four Springs Hegh C E T. The reserve champion Jersey was owned by Douglas Boop of Millmont. The Mifflinburg FFA member's Junior 2-year-old was an owner/bred animal sired by Valleystream J I S Juno.

In the Junior Jersey Show, two junior yearlings were selected as champions. The junior champion was owned by Mary Anne Rearick of Millheim and the reserve champion was owned by Melissa Dugan of Watsontown. The top county group was from Centre County.

The Guernsey Show junior champion and grand champion was owned by Scott Womer of Middleburg. The senior calf was sired by Wampanog Fayette Smokey. The reserve junior and reserve champion of the show was a senior yearling owned by Floyd Buffington of Millersburg.

Floyd Buffington owned and bred all the animals in the Ayrshire show. The Dauphin County FFA member's senior 2-year-old was awarded the champion ribbon. This junior calf was the reserve champion of the show.

Jeff Pirrung served as the showmanship judge for the show. He is a Penn State senior on the PSU Dairy Judging Team. Also assisting in the show were Grant Campbell, of the Pennsylvania FFA Association and the SUN Area Dairy Princess.

control apple scab, cedar apple rust, and powdery mildew. Also, the root stock resistance to a common disease such as fire blight is being researched.

The most common disease, according to Travis, is apple scab, which causes branches to turn brown and fall off. Through use of varieties, the researchers have seen some good control.

"It can be a major problem if even one or two fungicide sprays are missed," he said. "Even just one mistake can cause complete loss of the whole crop."

There are 11 different apple tree varieties in one test plot, of which nine are disease-resistant, according to Tom Clark, research aid, Department of Horticulture. The tree root stock is carefully examined in combination with varieties to discover which are the best at disease resistance.

Also, root stock and variety combinations and resistance to insects — and whether or not certain combinations draw certain amounts and types of insects — are under test at the research farm, according to Rajotte.

Several varieties of peach trees are under test for their resistance to cytospora canker, which is a fungus that attacks the dead wood. The disease, if unchecked, travels to the trunk, and can destroy the tree.

Pruning and overall care is important to control certain peach tree diseases that attack the fruit, particularly brown rot. Removal of the "mummies," or decomposing and dead fruit completely away from the tree, is vital.

Proper pruning is essential. Travis and Clark emphasized the importance of keeping the tree open to air and sunlight, and keeping the area at the foot of the tree clean and free of rotted fruit and dead branches.

There are 11 different apple tree varieties in one test plot, of which nine are disease-resistant, according to Tom Clark, research aid, Department of Horticulture. Here, he looks at a hedgerow trellis system in use.

Insect infestation, particularly of the lesser peach tree borer, can be a problem for peach growers. The research department has been investigating the numbers of infestation with special pheromone traps that measure the amount of the males of the borer in the area, according to Ed Rajotte, associate professor of entomology.

Several on-site environmental monitors, such as the Austrian-built KMSP system (which measures temperature, relative humidity, leaf wetness, and rainfall at each site), help predict the likelihood of possible disease or pest problems with crops. How the machines compare (some costing from $1,700-$2,000) and how accurately they measure is part of the research being undertaken by doctorate student Dave Truxell.

Apple tree root stocks, including the Mark, are in research at Penn State. Here, Jim Travis inspects a special slender-spindle free-standing trellising system.

"One of the most important things you can do to eliminate brown rot is take all the peaches out of the tree — take them out and get rid of them," said Travis. He told the growers to make sure there are no peaches remaining on the ground or in the tree.

Pruning should be when budbreak occurs, because if the tree is pruned before that time, the canker fungus can take hold.

Clark said that peaches must be thinned when the fruit size is small, about ½ inch. They should be thinned to 8-10 inches apart. By keeping them thinned, fruit size can be increased significantly, according to Clark.

Also, insect infestation, particularly of the lesser peach tree borer, can be a problem for peach growers. The research department has been investigating the numbers of infestation with special pheromone traps that measure the amount of the males of the borer in the area.

"If you have more information about when things are coming into the orchard, you can be more efficient about any pesticides you may have to use," said Rajotte. "Do some thinking about managing your pests before you apply a chemical spray."

Overall, it is important to get the exact information about the weather at the right times by carefully monitoring the weather at the exact site to determine what kind of pest controls to use. That's why gathering weather and environmental data is important, according to the researchers.

Several on-site environmental monitors, such as the Austrian-built KMSP system (which measures temperature, relative humidity, leaf wetness, and rainfall at each site), help predict the likelihood of possible disease or pest problems with crops. How the machines compare (some costing from $1,700-$2,000) and how accurately they measure is part of the research being undertaken by doctorate student Dave Truxell.

"What we're trying to do is find a better source of weather data that's easy for someone to use and is also very convenient and that will help them in their decision-making," said Truxell.

But for many growers, knowing how much pesticide to use, when, and if at all is a balancing act.

"It's easy to reduce pesticide use, but often, if you don't do it wisely, then you'll end up with lots of problems with diseases and insects," said Travis.

One of the ways that growers can reduce the current levels of fungicides and get control is through the use of planting disease-resistant varieties, according to Jim Travis, associate professor of plant pathology, in the panama hat. There are several under research, which control apple scab, cedar apple rust, and powdery mildew. Also, the root stock resistance to a common disease such as fire blight is being researched.

Apple trees were under attack from an insect called the spotted tentiform leafminer at the test site. Leaves bear the signature of the miner, "an insect that makes a 'mine' in the leaf," said Ed Rajotte, associate professor of entomology at Penn State. A small moth lays eggs on the apple leaf, and a caterpillar emerges. The caterpillar is so small, said Rajotte, that it's able to go "in between the upper and lower layers of the leaf and makes a little tunnel inside the leaf."

Ag Progress Tour Shows Reconstructed Wetlands

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Understanding the moisture conditions of the soil and how the land was managed in the past can help landowners reconstruct damaged wetland areas.

And with time, effort, and careful management, landowners can go a long way to refurbishing the natural plant and wildlife intrinsic to the area, according to Robert Glennon, plant materials specialist for USDA/Soil Conservation Service on Tuesday afternoon at Ag Progress Days.

Glennon spoke to a group of about 25 people during the general conservation tour, which included stops at several sites vital to feeding and maintaining reconstructed wetlands.

Glennon told the tour members that wetlands, in order to promote enhanced water quality, should have a water depth of no more than 12-18 inches. The reason? Because most plants, in order to perform oxygen transformation from the air to the soil, grow no more than two feet.

The process, said Glennon, is similar to a backyard septic tank that uses bacteria to tie up or break down pollutants. Aerobic bacteria in the soil needs oxygen from the plants, and some parts of the wetlands require anaerobic bacteria to do the same job — clean the water.

It's a two-tiered system that works effectively to clean the water and enhance water quality, which is part of what wetland areas accomplish.

The reconstructed wetlands were in put in place three years ago through the cooperative efforts of the Pennsylvania Land Improvement Construction Association (which donated equipment time), the SCS, and Penn State.

Different species of wetland plants were installed, including cattails and seven varieties of sedges. Also, woody plants were also incorporated in the project. Many of the sedge varieties were investigated for survivability.

Also, new projects as part of the conservation tour included a sedimentation control project installed at the demonstration site in the spring of this year. A special artificial storm test sedimentation holding site, which provides 7,000 cubic feet (5,000 cubic feet of water and 2,000 of sedimentation), was installed to investigate ways to control runoff and improve water quality from storm water.

A pond with several acre feet of water supplies the test site. Storm events can be simulated from this pond, according to project coordinator Dr. Albert Jarrett, professor of ag engineering at Penn State.

One thing the investigators discovered was that water that was ponded went a long way toward improving water quality "tremendously," said Jarrett.

The storm simulator uses a spring-fed pond to drop water at the maximum rate of 1 cubic foot per second or 450 gallons per minute, what is considered the "two-year" storm, based on a 1 acre site at 8 percent slope. They can place 1,000 pounds of soil in the flow to simulate sedimentation runoff, and measure the sedimentation through a "sedigraph."

This year, so far, the simulator has been used in 20 demonstrations, said Jarrett.

Dr. Albert Jarrett, professor of ag engineering at Penn State, shows Ag Progress Days visitors a special sedimentation and runoff simulator project installed at the site in the spring this year. Here he holds a perforated riser, of which several are under test at the site.

Different species of wetland plants were installed, including cattails and seven varieties of sedges, at the reconstructed wetlands site at Rockspring. Also, woody plants were also incorporated in the project. Many of the sedge varieties were investigated for survivability.

Southeast Pa. Dairy Pasture Walks Continue

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — On July 29, approximately 60 attended the Southeast Pasture Walk at Forrest Stricker farm in Robesonia.

Southeast Pennsylvania pasture walks will continue through the end of November. If you are currently grazing, considering grazing, or just curious about grazing, then this series of Pasture Walks is for you.

Not only will you get to see farms using pasture systems, but you will also be able to ask questions and network with other interested farmers. The following four farms have agreed to host pasture walks starting at 9:30 a.m.

• On August 26, Curtis and Brenda Dietrich of Lehigh County are hosting the walk and working on their second year of intensive grazing. Thirty-five cows and 20 calves and yearlings have 35 acres available for grazing. In addition to grazing, the cows are barn fed corn silage, high moisture ear corn, 38 percent supplement, and rolled-cooked soybeans. The Dietrichs maintain high milk production and milk five times in two days.

• On September 30, Lee and Gail Reinford of Montgomery County, also on their second year of intensive grazing are hosting the pasture walk. Seventy cows have 35 acres available to graze. Crops grazed include orchardgrass and clovers, bluegrass and ryegrass clover mixtures, and alfalfa. The herds ration includes TMR forage supplementation (normal pasture growth supplies ⅔ of forage) and water is available in several locations.

• On October 28, Will Comley of Berks County will host the October walk. Comley is on his second year of grazing with 125 milking cows and 100 replacements. A total of 60 acres of permanent pasture is available with an addition 80 acres of converted cropland added this year. Single-strand high tensile fencing divides daily paddocks and alleyways. Water is supplied by black plastic pipe in alleyways to portable water tank. The herd ration includes TMR forage supplementation

Maryland Grange Donation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Grange, the nation's oldest agricultutal organization, continues its 126 years of community service by establishing a National Grange Flood Relief Fund to aid victims of the flooding in the Midwest.

The Maryland State Grange was one of the first state Granges to make a donation to this fund.

Persons wishing to contribute may do so by sending a check made payable to Grange Flood Relief to National Grange Flood Relief Fund, 1616 H Street, NW, Washington, DC 20006-4999, Attention Robert Barrow.

National Grange Master Robert Barrow said, "I have talked with our state leaders in the three most affected states, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri to determine how we could be of the most help. They said money to purchase the most immediate needs of food and clothing and other essential items is what's needed now." Barrow said, "We immediately set up a Grange Flood Relief Fund and sent a mailing to 4,000 local Grange chapters asking for donations. These funds will be divided between the three states for distribution by their respective relief committees."

Helping members and non members alike in times of natural disaster is a tradition of the Grange.

In 1992 Grangers nationwide sent donations to a relief effort spearheaded by the Florida State Grange for victims of Hurricane Andrew.

And their stomachs in neutral.

Cows get acid indigestion, too. Under modern feeding practices, rumen pH can fluctuate outside the 6.2 to 6.8 optimum range. If this occurs, bacteria are impaired and digestion slows down. So does milk production.

Supplementing your rations with ARM & HAMMER® brand rumen buffer helps normalize rumen digestion and keeps your cows in high gear for maximum performance.

Don't lose a pound of production. Contact your Agway Feed Sales Specialist today and get your herd on ARM & HAMMER® feed grade sodium bicarbonate tomorrow. For maximum profits all year long.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

When the temperature goes over 75° and stays there, cows are less than fully productive. Or fully profitable. To milk every last drop of profit when the heat's on, topdress with Ultra-Lac™ 22 Plus. With greatly improved palatability, added MEGALAC® rumen bypass fat*, and a specialized blend of proteins, vitamins, minerals, sodium bicarbonate and Dairyman's Edge, energy-dense Ultra-Lac™ 22 Plus helps you beat the heat. It increases dry matter intake and keeps production at optimum levels in even the hottest weather. Especially when you use it in tandem with the Agway Heat Stress Pack. Call your Agway Feed Sales Specialist for all the details on both products. Because only Agway has them.

Chester Co. 4-H Dairy Goat Show Held

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — The Chester County 4-H Dairy Goat Roundup was held at the Kimberton Fairgrounds recently. A total of 40 project goats were shown and 16 4-H youth participated.

This year, because of the large number of entries, the show was divided into six breed classes — Alpine, La Mancha, Nubian, Oberhasli, Toggenburg, and Registered Grades.

Priscilla Burt, a Toggenburg breeder and 4-H dairy goat leader from Quakertown, instructed the 4-H'ers in how to improve their showing and fitting techniques.

In the LaMancha breed, Ben Hendricks, Phoenixville, was grand champion with his under-4-month-old kid, Samantha. Sean Holz, Phoenixville, was runner-up with Falena, also an under-4-month-old kid. Tammy Yeager, Spring City, won the major awards for the Nubian breed with her 2-to 3-year-old doe, Jasmin, which was named grand champion, and her under 4-month-old kid taking reserve grand champion and junior champion. Becky Hendricks, Phoenixville, was the reserve junior champion with Mandy, a 12- to 24-month-old kid.

Theresa Holz, Phoenixville, won all the ribbons for the Oberhasli goats. Hersey, a 5-year-and-older doe, was the grand and senior champion. Her under 4-month-old kid, Lollipop, was junior and reserve grand champion. She had a 2-to 3-year-old doe, Cocoa, that captured the reserve senior championship. The Toggenburg awards went to Jason Wagner, Spring City, with Rhonda, a 3-to 5-year-old doe, being named senior and grand champion. His aged doe, Reba, was reserve senior and reserve grand champion. In the registered grade category, Amy Sutter, a first-year member from Spring City, had the junior and grand champion with an under-4-month-old kid named Klara.

The highlight of the roundup was when the judge selected Laura Anderson's grand champion Alpine doe, Jessmine, for best in show honors. Theresa Holz was close behind with the grand champion Oberhasli doe, Hersey.

In the fitting and showing competition, Kathleen Anderson, Landenberg, was the senior champion (for members more than 14 years old) for fitting and showing. In the junior competition, Laura Anderson, Landenberg, was first for showing and Becky Hendricks, Spring City, captured the fitting title. Amy Sutter, Spring City, was picked as the best first year fitter and Michael Collier, Pottstown, was the top first year showman.

A group of four Cloverbuds (pre-4-H age) competed in their own fitting and showing class with Jessica Bohmier standing first for fitting and Theresa Anderson winning the first place ribbon in showing.

A new award was initiated this year for the best fitter and best showperson of the roundup. Becky Hendricks was named the best fitter of the entire show and Kathleen Anderson was the top showperson. Priscilla Burt, the judge, complemented the exhibitors on how well they had prepared and shown their goats.

Theresa Holz won grand champion Oberhasli at the Chester County 4-H Dairy Goat Roundup.

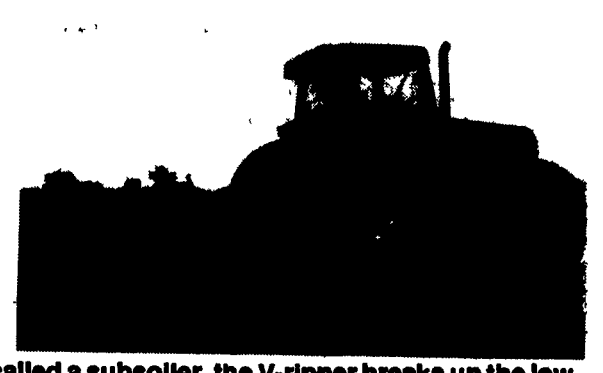
Class 26 had two entries, Nevin G. Rice, Blain and Jeff Kauffman, Mifflintown.

Winning entries from Class 27 were, in order, Virgil Gutshall, Jr., Blain; 2. Heidel Hollow Farm, Germansville; Jeff Kauffman, Mifflintown.

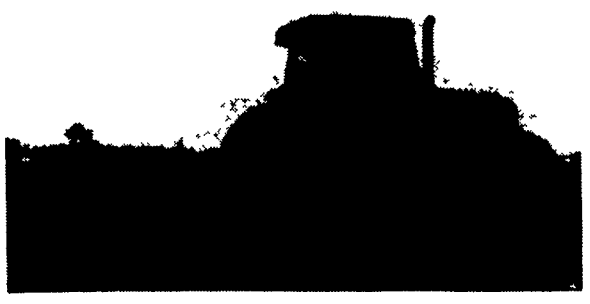
In Class 28 competition, the following won in order: Virgil Gutshall, Jr., Blain; Nevin G. Rice, Blain; and Jeff Kauffman, Mifflintown.

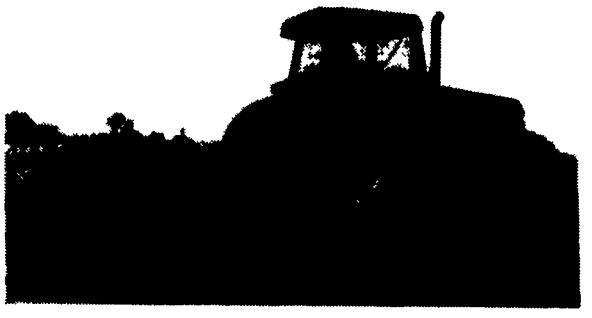
Class 29 had the following results: Jeff Kauffman, Mifflintown and R.E. Shearer and Family, Port Royal.

In the last, Class 30 had only two winning entries: Jeff Kauffman, Mifflintown and Chase Eutzy, Huntingdon.



This series of photos shows a deep-tillage device called a V-ripper as it digs 15-inches into the soil to loosen the hard-packed soil. In hay for more than 25 years, the field was used for many years as a parking lot at Ag Progress. Over the years, during dry and wet conditions, cars and other equipment packed the soil, inherently full of rocks and clay, which help contribute to compaction. Also called a subsoiler, the V-ripper breaks up the lower layers of topsoil and the subsoil to allow for better plant root growth. The subsoiling demonstration was one of several tillage demonstrations that visitors could see at this year's Ag Progress Days.





Once A Parking Lot, Now A Deeply Tilled Field

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Once upon a time, they needed a place to put cars. So they used a hay field.

The hay field, you see, goes back, way back, to a time before tons of cars and equipment were invited onto it, in conditions rainy and dry, to pack it down.

Its usefulness as a parking lot served well, but for growing crops, well, that was in question. It was solid hardpan. Dusty and rocky. Nearly unfit for farming.

Until a deep tiller, what tillage experts call a "V-ripper," arrived one day.

Despite the rocks, clay, hardpan, and dry, dry soil, the V-ripper did its job, and dug down deep — 15 inches deep, to be exact. The subsoiler helped loosen and dislodge the compaction layer so harmful to good root growth and overall crop condition.

The photos here depict the "V-ripper" at work during a special deep tillage demonstration on Tuesday afternoon at Ag Progress Days.

Needless to say, the event was well-attended, with tens of people watching from a cool, tree-lined drive.

Dairy Of Distinction Winners Meet At Ag Progress Days

Representatives of most of the winners of the 1993 Dairy of Distinction farm awards attended the Tuesday afternoon program in their honor at Ag Progress Days. This year 49 new farms were honored. Guests of honor included Boyd Wolff, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Wolff (center with sign). The secretary read a proclamation from acting governor, Mark Singel that designated the week of August 15 to 21 as Dairy of Distinction Week. Large color photographic prints of each winning farm was presented by Lancaster Farming. At the end of the meeting, winners got together on the barn hill for this photograph. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

Speakers Extol Partnership

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.)—The government luncheon at Ag Progress Days Wednesday featured the introduction of national, state and county political representatives. Various speakers presented the idea that the partnership of agriculture, education and government was necessary, and the reason for the success of the various segments of Pennsylvania's life.

Joab Thomas, Penn State University president, said the importance of agriculture in Pennsylvania goes beyond the important fact that it is the largest industry and an important "economic engine" in the state economy. He placed "great signifance" in agriculture's support of a value system that is the backbone of the country.

"The farmers of the world are examples of the value systems that have made this country strong," Thomas said. "A strong agriculture in this country is important."

Lamartine Hood, dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, said agribusiness is the heart of the economy's revitalization. He said Ag Progress Days provide the opportunity to celebrate the vitality of this fantastic food system that we have in Pennsylvania.

"Here we have a shining example of how government, industry and education can form partnerships to insure the high quality and safe food supply that are abundantly available to all of our citizens," Hood said.

Ruth Rudy (D-171) brought greetings from acting governor, Mark Singel.

The featured speaker was Keith Eckel, president, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. Eckel said progress in agriculture must be geared to knowledge rather than to emotion or superstition. He said he was disappointed that the adoption of the budget reconciliation bill last week in Washington included a little-known clause that prohibits the use of BST for 90 days after it is approved for use.

"I am neither an advocate or a detractor of BST, but let me say it would be a mistake to make a political debate out of the decisions that should be made out of good science and medical fact," Eckel said. "If the legislature would have voted on all the new technology, we would still be back in the agriculture of the 1800's.

"In a book published in 1892, the projection was made of an extreme food shortage by the 1930's because we would not have enough to feed the horses that it would take to produce the food. But we sought change, and we met the challenge because we used the best resources of knowledge.

"I know the people that are involved in the public policy decisions that are going to impact the future of agriculture in the 21th century," Eckel said. "Those people are knowledgable, honest and sincere. Now is the time for us to work together to focus the direction of all of our efforts toward a successful ag economy. People must be involved, and I am optimistic. Our future is in our hands, and the changes we face can still be shaped. But we as a group, a partnership between industry, farmers and the land grant system, must come together to meet that challenge so the speaker standing here 20 years from now can look back with pride and ahead with confidence. That's the challenge we all face as we meet the next decade."

Casey High Wins Third Steer Championship

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.)—For the third year in a row, Casey High, 14-year-old son of Larry and Mae High, Lititz, showed the grand champion steer at the Lancaster Red Rose Beef Club Show last Friday afternoon. High's first-place in the middleweight class was bred by Larry Weaver, Ephrata.

The reserve champion followed the champion in the light heavyweight class for Ryan Donough, Manheim.

In the showmanship classes, Jay Hess, Conestoga, won the Intell steer for his championship efforts. And Jason Stoltzfus, Elizabethtown, was the reserve champion showman and received a $300 check from Lancaster Farming to help purchase a steer for next year's shows. Stoltzfus won the Intell steer in 1991. Both champion showman competed in the Senior division.

Top placings in the show are as follows:

PEAK MILK, PERSISTENCY AND 305-DAY PROJECTIONS

Cows make most of their profit in the first 100 days of lactation. Thus, it is important to get cows off to a good start, without setting them up for problems later in lactation. That's no small task!

The goal is to get cows to peak well and to have them hold their peaks as long as possible, while still maintaining enough flesh (energy reserves) for conception to occur.

How well a cow peaks and how well she holds her peak production affects how much milk she will produce that lactation and how much profit she will make. To estimate how much milk a cow will give in the first 305 days of her current lactation, multiply her peak production by 200 to 250 — 225 to 250 for first calf heifers and 200 to 250 for older cows. First calf heifers don't peak as high and don't drop off in production as fast as older cows.

All of this is computed for you automatically on your Penna. and Raleigh DHIA reports. It appears as estimated or projected 305 day actual records or as estimated or projected 305 day mature equivalent (ME) records. For individual cows it appears on their cow page and on the herd's monthly report.

Herd average projections, by lactation number, are found on the Herd Summary Report.

Table 1 is an example that shows average peak productions, actual and ME projections by lactation number, for a sample herd used in a Penna. DHIA records manual. Note that peak milk for first calf heifers is about 75% of that of older cows.

Table 1. Lactation Number, Peak Milk, 305 Day Actual and 305 Day ME Estimates

Age Category	Avg Days to Peak	Avg Lbs Milk at Peak	Herd Tested						305 Day Actual				305 Day ME
			1-2 No	Pct	2-3 No	Pct	3-4 No	Pct	4-5 No	Pct	Milk Lbs	Fat Lbs	Pro Lbs	SNF Lbs (MFNS)	Milk Lbs	Fat Lbs	Pro Lbs	SNF Lbs (MFNS)
Lactation 1	82	71.6	18	117	17	104	16	98	14	94	18054	732	545		23908	959	706
Lactation 2	58	92.2	19	114	17	96	16	94	11	94	20891	824	641		24193	945	722
Lactation 3+	65	102.3	23	111	23	97	21	95	19	94	23619	910	727		24320	936	749

Similarly, their 305 day actual estimate is about 75% of their ME estimate. For 3rd lactation cows, actual production is about 85% of their estimated ME production. The ME records are an estimate of what cows are expected to produce when they reach maturity at about 6-7 years of age.

It might surprise you to see that ME projections for first calf heifers are less than that of 2nd lactation cows. If we are making genetic progress in the herd, the first calf heifers should have the highest ME projections, and when we compare apples to apples they probably do — even in the example in Table 1. The reason we don't see it in Table 1 or in Table 2, or in your own DHIA records is that we are comparing a non-culled group of first lactation cows to older groups of cows that have already had the low produc-

Penn State Alumni Meet At Ag Progress Days

Lambert Hood, dean of the PSU College of Agricultural Sciences, presents a national 4-H award to state Rep. Samuel Hayes Jr. The award was one of eight presented nationally this year.

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Members of the Penn State University College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society held their annual meeting Tuesday at the Rockspring Ag Progress Days agricultural technology and research fair.

Several hundred attended the meeting during which five members were elected to the 32-member board of directors and a new president was named.

Also, in addition to presenting several awards to members and friends of the society, Lambert Hood, dean of the college, discussed the direction, achievements and problems the college has experienced during the past year and the outlook for the future.

Outgoing president MeeCee Baker introduced guest and supporters, and called for approval of the minutes as part of her last officials duties.

Alan Bair, chairman of the nominations committee, reported on the results of elections, which were held recently through mail balloting.

According to Bair, of the five positions on the board, four were taken by re-election. However, Mary Ann Keith, agricultural administrator for Mid-State Bank, in New Enterprise, was elected for a first time.

Those re-elected include George Jugovic, Bob Storch, Lolly Lesher, and Collette Williams.

Table 2 is a section of the Raleigh DHIA Herd Summary Report. It shows Lancaster County DHIA averages for herds whose records are processed at Releigh. Notice that the ME projections for first lactation cows are about 500 pounds less than that of the second lactation group. But, after the low producers were culled out in their first lactation, we observe about a 1000 pound gain as we compare the second lactation group to the older cows.

Another place where you can track daily production by lactation number and by stage of lactation is on the Herd Summary Report. Table 3 is a section from the Raleigh Report that shows Lancaster County averages. As you study this section of the report keep in mind, the averages are only for the few cows shown on the top two lines that were in that stage of lactation on the last test day. The Penna. Herd Summary (Table 1) uses percent persistency to track daily production changes through the first 5 months of lactation.

Are your cows peaking the way they should and do they hold their peaks well? Are you making production gains with the new generations of genetics coming into the herd? Are you two-year olds performing as well as they should be?

Your DHIA records may provide some clues that can help you answer these questions more accurately. If you spot problems, the next challenge will be to determine the root cause and take action to correct the problems in an effort to put the herd on a more profitable track.

German Ag Diplomat

The statement from von Heydebrand was made Tuesday after he was visiting the equine demonstration area of the Ag Progress Days Rockspring farm, located several miles west of Boalsburg.

Heydebrand was touring the agricultural research and technology fair with Joy "J.D." Dunbar, chief executive officer of RULE. The horse area was at his second stop, watching from crowded stands while Herb Amuar was demonstrating his team of Hafflinger draft horses in the horse show ring.

Heydebrand's presence was made known when he requested to drive the Amuar's team. The change in schedule was allowed and von Heydebrand was introduced by the ring announcer.

According to von Heydebrand, these were the same breed of horses he trained and used while growing up on his father's farm in Germany. The ride rekindled memories he said and when he finished he received loud applause.

But in conversation after the handling demonstration, von Heydebrand said he wanted American farmers to know that German farmers are not their enemies in production.

It was von Heydebrand's second trip to the State College region in his year as a German agricultural attache to the U.S..

He said that his responsibilities include being involved with policies affecting agriculture, forestry, fisheries and dealing with bilateral issues. He said that while trade issues are a mainstay of his job, he is also "closely watching the agriculture policy here in the United States and report (back to Germany)."

He is also involved in the negotiations of the Uraguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), and on smaller and various issues, such as differences in pesticide residue levels in food and wine labeling differences.

He does not directly come into contact with developing trade partnerships between American and German private interests, that is the role of the German Central Marketing Board, he said, to act as a trade developer and business liason.

It is also important for Americans to understand that Germany, as a member state of the European Community, doesn't have autonomous control of the EC and thus its own agricultural policy.

On other topical issues, von Heydebrand said that he suspects that there will be no ban on bovine somatotropin (BST) by the EC, which is expecting to decide policy this fall. Anti-BST and anti-biotechnology organizations, erroneously reported within the past weeks that the EC had "banned" BST.

However, while a ban was recommended by a political advisory group to the EC board, von Heydebrand said he suspects the EC and Germany will adopt a moratorium on the product, but a longer moratorium than the 90-day moratorium sought to go into effect here, pending approval of its use by the federal Food and Drug Administration.

While von Heydebrand said that the safety of the milk derived from cows treated with BST was not a problem, the driving reason for the EC and Germanic call for a moratorium is based solidly in industry fear that consumer confidence in dairy products may slip.

"From Germany's point-of-view, we appreciate the moratorium," von Heydebrand said.

"The technological progress in the agricultural area is quite high," he said. "But the willingness and the ability of the consumer to accept (the technological advances) is not," he said, "because (with agriculture) you eat the product."

He said that it is generally perceived that the consumer, while quick to take advantage of technological advances in the automotive industry and with such new devices such as computers, microwave ovens, video cameras, etc., and various electronic and medical advances, are less inclined to eat a new product because it is actually going into their bodies.

He said that consumers eventually will accept technological advances in agriculture, "but it takes longer."

On other matters, he said that while the EC has a lot of work to do in order to achieve its goals, he said he strongly believes that the problems are not insurmountable. "So far it's very positive," he said, adding that he has confidence in the stability of the EC.

Von Heydebrand also praised the work of Penn State University and its extension force for establishing relationships with governments in the now emerging countries which had comprised the former Soviet Union, such as Poland and several other nations from Europe to Egypt.

According to him, the role of educator and helper, not director, is the perfect role for the United States. "The relationship the university has with Poland (helping to establish a Penn State University style extension system) is doing just the right thing."

From the left, Herb Amuar shakes hands with Hans Christoph von Heydebrand, first secretary of agriculture (agricultural attache) at the German Embassy in Washington D.C., as Heydebrand returns the reigns of Amuar's team of Hafflinger draft horses. Amuar was part of an Ag Progress Day demonstration when the unexpected visit from the foreign dignitary.

Ridge Family Visits Grumbine Farm, Talks Agriculture

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Republican gubernatorial candidate, Tom Ridge, spent this morning having breakfast with area farmers, seeing newborn livestock, and touring corn and soybean fields on the back of a tractor. Ridge, who spent Monday night with his family at the Myerstown farm of Dennis Grumbine, is on a four-day, eleven-city tour of the state "to let Pennsylanians get to know me, and let me get to know Pennsylvanias even better."

Grumbine, who is Chairman of the Farmers for Ridge Coalition, asked local farmers and agribusiness leaders to his farm this morning so that they could discuss their concerns with Ridge and meet the man "best qualified and most willing to listen when it comes to the concerns of the state's agricultural industry and rural communities." Part of a broader Agricultural Coalition for Ridge, the Farmers Coalition was the first state-wide coalition formed by Ridge. Don Cook, from Bucks Co. and Mike Brubaker, from Lancaster Co. are working for agri business support.

Ridge's 7:30 a.m. breakfast included a broad discussion of agricultural issues including the need for Pennsylvania's next Govenor to actively promote the state's agricultural products.

"I can assure you that I plan to be the Governor that will market our agricultural products in markets here and abroad. A strong and well-staffed Department of Agriculture, support for research into new markets and exporting our products to overseas markets are all part of my plan to bolster this $40 billion industry," Ridge said this morning.

Citing the fact that the state's number one industry makes up less than five percent of the state's exports, Ridge said he plans to improve export development for agriculture and food products. Earlier this year, he proposed a comprehensive "Keystone Export Strategy," which includes measures to provide technical and financial expertise to businesses and individuals looking to export. Ridge also plans to be the Governor that engages in a number of overseas-trade missions to promote Pennsylvania and its products to foreign governments and companies.

"All Pennsylvania jobs — agricultural, industrial and small business alike — are going to increasingly depend on Pennsylvania's ability to successfully compete among the 49 other states and in emerging global markets," Ridge told the group gathered for breakfast, "Pennsylvania's economic prosperity lies in our farmers and industries having the tools and leadership they need to compete."

In addition, Ridge discussed the importance of having a Governor who understands the challenges today's farmers face, from soil conservation and pesticide use to the delays often caused by dealing with the State Department of Environmental Resources. Ridge said he "plans to be that Governor."

Ridge is calling for a comprehensive overhaul of the Department of Environmental Resources to streamline the permitting process, improve the responsiveness of the agency and end the adversarial relationship that DER has engendered with the public. Specifically, Ridge's plan calls for the creation of an office to work exclusively with the regulated community to improve understanding of and compliance with environmental regulations. Ridge's plan would also elevate the Bureaus of State Parks and Forestry to a cabinet-level department.

Tom Ridge with children Lesley and Tommy, center, learn about livestock farming from Dennis Grumbine, left. At the halter of the Lebanon Fair champion sheep is P. J. Bouer, and Kristen Hoffer shows her prize winning yearling Holstein.

Barbara and Dennis Grumbine, introduce the Tom Ridge family, Michele, Tom, Lesley, 7, and Tommy, 6, at a press conference on the farm, Tuesday morning. Ridge is an early Republican gubernatorial candidate for 1994 and has promised strong support for agriculture if elected.

Demonstrations, Machinery, Food Attract Thousands To Ag Progress

VERN ACHENBACH
LOU ANN GOOD

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — More than 50,000 people visited Penn State's Ag Progress Days this week. Those who were looking for new ideas in production agriculture were not disappointed but the annual event also expanded activities for children and homemakers.

"It's a family activity. Our whole family loves it," said Linda McCullough of Newville. She, her husband Neal, who is a state DHIA director, enjoy learning about all the ways that agriculture is changing. Their three children and a neighborhood friend were more impressed with Happy Valley Farm Petting Zoo, the machinery that they could climb over, and the food.

During the three-day event,

(Turn to Page A36)

Shane Gray, 4, and his brother, 6, think they are lucky that they could take off from playschool and visit Ag Progress with Aunt Carol Baker of State College. The boys like to sit on tractors and make believe they are farmers.

Mrs. John Sabol of Carlisle planned to enter her Grape-nut Ice Cream in the contest, but was greatly disappointed to find that she was missing a part to her ice cream maker. After the contest, another contestant churned her mixture and the crowd was eager to taste it.

Tim, 2, and Andy, 4, find it's easy riding while parents Paul and Debbie Taylor of Ringgold pull the wagon. The Ringgolds, who have a small vegetable farm said that this is the first time in six years they have attended Ag Progress. While the parents love everything in general about the event, the children were more impressed with climbing over the tractors.

The equipment and demonstrations keep these three from Strasburg coming to Ag Progress every year. "You learn more here than at Farm Show," said Leroy Weaver, right. Bob Weaver, left, said that he likes seeing new ideas such as the wrapping of bales this year. Henry Stoltzfus, center, said it's really the ice cream that draws him to the annual event.

Jordon Nyman gets a Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture promotion sticker on his shirt from Lesa Tressler, with the PDA Bureau of Market Development.

The dairy farm family of Neal (missing from photo) and Linda McCullough of Newville visit Ag Progress for the first time in recent years. While the parents enjoy seeing all the different ways agriculture is changing, the children were impressed with other activities. From left, Nate, 5, liked the six-wheelers; Katie, 8, and Betsy, 10, the food, and friend Christopher Kann, 7, the calf.

Albert Hack believes that Guernsey milk makes ice cream taste better. This was the first time this farmer from Berwick entered the contest. His Strawberry Ice Cream brought a third place win and $100.

Alumni Society Meets

Karl Girton was elected president for the next term and, as his first act, called for approval of seven bylaw changes as recommended by the society's executive committee.

The changes were to:

- Alter references to the "College of Agriculture" to "College of Agricultural Sciences."
- Give each affiliate organization the power to determine the length of term of office of a representative appointed to serve on the board.
- Change the prerequisite of directors seeking election to board presidency to include serving a minimum two-year term as a president-elect prior to actually beginning to serve a two-year term as president. This was done in order to ensure that a director was still an active member at the time they would normally stand for presidency.
- Allow the executive committee (which consists of the president, president-elect, immediate past president, the dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences and the executive secretary of the society) to meet without giving prior notification to the full board of directors as had been the rule. Any decisions made by the executive committee are still subject to full board approval before becoming enacted.
- Consolidate the nine standing committees to four committees and realigning responsibilities.
- Add the society treasurer to the membership of the executive committee and remove the wording that would require executive committee members to notify the full board of directors prior to meeting.
- To continue to allow committees to be as large as necessary, but to also allow each committee to appoint subcommittees to carry specific committee responsibilities. The purpose for the change is related to the consolidation of the standing committees — instead of serving on multiple standing committees, each board member is to be assigned to one of the four committees which can then split responsibilities to subcommittees.

In other action, Alan Bair was recognized for at least a decade of serving on the society board. David Morrow was recognized for his service.

In other awards, Rep. Samuel Hayes Jr. R-Tyrone, was recognized with one of eight 4-H awards presented nationwide for his 22 years support of 4-H. He was also recognized for his long-standing commitment to agriculture.

In accepting the award, Hayes said that the efforts of the 4-H program and the College of Agricultural Sciences and the Extension Service in support of youth are good not just for the agricultural college and Pennsylvania's agricultural and economic strength, but good for all of America.

Hayes said that is important for all to realize the importance of guiding youth into a healthy and rewarding life through caring, nurturing, and by helping to set and reach goals.

"Even if the world was completely charted, there are still young 'Magellans' coming on," he said, charging the society to aid and encourage the desire to learn and explore and seek the undiscovered.

In effect, Hayes said that not only does youth have the explored to re-explore, but that there will never be a lack of something to explore. And he said that with youth must be encouraged to "(fight) ignorance and to lead the world from the darkness (of ignorance) into the light of truth and knowledge and to make this a better world.

"We must provide the next generations of Magellans with the greatest opportunities known to mankind," he said.

In other business, Dean Hood provided an overview of the status of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

According to Hood:

Ice Cream Churn-Off

dren expressed surprise at their first-place win, for they believed that the Orange Sicle Cream texture wasn't as good as it usually is.

The hot weather might have had something to do with that. It was definitely ice cream weather for its cool refreshment, but the hot weather had a drawback in that it quickly melted the ice cream.

Each year, Elsie Smith enters a different flavor of ice cream in the contest. The kids say that they try many of Grandma's experiments and each child has a different favorite. Many family gatherings at Grandma's farm in Roaring Spring include a stint at churning ice cream.

It was the fifth year for the contest at Penn State's Ag Progress Days. Sponsors include American Dairy Association, Dairy Council, Mid East United Dairy Industry Association/F.O. 36 Advertising Agency, and the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

Judges included Barbara Miller, Penn State food, science department; Crystal Schweighofer, Pa. Dairy Princess, Ed Wenck, WQWK-D.J., and Andrew Schmzo, Penn State University Creamery.

ORANGE SICLE CREAM
First place

1 can orange juice concentrate, thawed
4 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon orange extract
4 tablespoons light cream

Mix cornstarch and sugar in water (enough to dissolve). Stir mixture into heated orange juice concentrate and cook until thickened. Cool. Add orange extract and light cream. Hint: A few drops of orange food coloring can be added for extra color.

Custard:

3 cups sugar
6 eggs
6 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
4 cups milk
1 pack unflavored gelatin
2 cups whipping cream
2 cups light cream
1 can evaporated milk
1 tablespoon vanilla extract

In a heavy saucepan, heat milk until it scalds. Mix sugar, eggs, cornstarch and salt; stir into milk. Cook until it forms a soft custard. Soften gelatin in ¼ cup cold milk and stir into custard. Cool. Add evaporated milk, whipping cream, and light cream. Freezer should be ¾ full. Freeze until custard is very firm then add orange sauce and turn crank a few times to swirl. Makes 6 quarts.

VERY BERRY
Second place

10 large eggs
4 cups sugar, divided
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
2 quarts heavy cream
2 quarts strawberries (divided)
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 quart blueberries
4 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons orange liqueur

In a large pan, combine eggs, milk, and 2 cups sugar. Cook over medium heat until mixture reaches consistency of mayonnaise. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla and cream. In another pan, crush 1 quart strawberries and add 2 cups sugar and cornstarch. Cook until mixture begins to thicken. Remove from heat and stir in orange liqueur. Add this to the previous mixture and cool. Slice the remaining strawberries and combine with blueberries and confectioners' sugar. Pour cream mixture into ice cream freezer and freeze until mixture begins to get firm. Add remaining berries and finish freezing.

Champion ice cream makers are Elsie Smith and her clan that includes daughters, 1976 Blair County Dairy Princess Angie Smith Fetzer and Darlene Ryan; and grandchildren, Andrea Ryan, Jerica Fetzer, Danielle, Eric Smith, Bradley Smith, Jason Fetzer, and Brent Ryan.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM
Third place

3 cans evaporated milk
2 cups granulated sugar
5 eggs
1½ quarts Guernsey milk
1 quart strawberries, chopped in blender
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a bowl, beat eggs and sugar until smooth. Add evaporated milk and vanilla; blend in slowly. Pour into freezer and add milk and strawberries. Makes 6 quarts.

All-American Deadlines Set

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Preparations are under way, final details are being worked out, and entries for the 30th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show are arriving at the Farm Show Office.

The first entry deadline was August 20. Entries postmarked on or before August 20 were accepted at $15 per animal.

Entries on August 21 through Sept. 1 will be accepted at $25 per animal. Entries must be submitted on the forms provided by the All-American.

• The college has the highest budget for research within the entire Penn State University system. "We're committed to doing research that matters," he said, adding that the world-wide influence of the college is growing.

• The college depends upon private funds for support. Last year, in competing for external research dollars, the college received $15 million. This year it is up to $20 million, Hood said.

• He said the college is one of the leading institutions in interdisciplinary and intercollegiate cooperation, even though he said it was strained by limited resources. In 1984, the initial computer network was started. Currently, Hood said the computer hardware system is out of date and needs updated. He noted that Penn Pages, the college's computer information access system, recently celebrated its 1 millionth access for information. It has been in operation since 1985.

A statewide satelite system to be used in conjunction with the computer system is the next stage, he said. Ag Sat is to provide a dedicated up link at the college and 67 terminal downlinks (satelite dishes) across the state. There are 30 installed at this time, he said. Once in place, it will allow for "very wide information access."

• Since the university went to be a member of the Big 10 colleges for sports reasons, the effect has been good for the college of agriculture, because now it is allowed to be involved with international project consortia and the college is currently involved in projects from Albania to Poland.

• Enrollments at the college increased 6.3 percent last year, and an increase is anticipated for this fall, though it was too early for fall enrollments to be estimated, he said. In the past five years, including last year, he said enrollments have increased 29 percent.

• The college is the 8th largest college of agriculture in the nation, one of six ag colleges in the Big 10, and it has the largest undergraduate student body (about 2,400) in the Big 10.

• The Penn State Berks Campus, located in Berks County, has been the focusing on agricultural programs and has experienced a 74 percent increase in paid accepts.

• The environmental resources management course offered has doubled to 470 students and graduates "all get good jobs," Hood said, "because it is heavily science oriented."

• The college has been forced to limit acceptance into its landscaping courses, because of popularity.

• The intership program is a success with 200 employers offering more than 2,000 internships which provide opportunities for college credit. To date there are 50 students enrolled in the program and the internships are all over the world. In this vien, the society has offered 10 $500 awards to those students who have completed outstanding internship programs.

• Scholarships are an increasingly bigger factor in attracting and keeping good students, he said. Last year, the college awarded $450,000 in scholarships to 335 students, which is more than a 100 percent increase since 1988.

• About 70 percent of the ag sciences $90 million budget comes from public appropriations. With less and less support coming from state and federal sources, a downsizing of college staff has been performed and will continue as state support decreases. In 1989 the college staff was 300 strong. Today it has been pared down to 260.

from August 17-19, the focus was on Conserving Our Resources Through Science, which emphasied the need to conserve and protect natural resources such as water and soil. Production agriculture exhibits and presentations stressed conservation compliance methods and management. Research tours provided an overview of Penn State agricultural research on horticulture, orchard, and grazing.

Back by popular demand this year was the Crafts Building. Local artists displayed and demonstrated their work.

"We provide another interest rather than machinery, field tours, and production agriculture," said Louise Fox, who was in charge of Centre Pieces, a quilting display.

Ask the Experts was a popular spot this year. A panel of research experts from Penn State were on hand to answer any question visitors might have. It was an opportunity for visitors to find out what to do about problems they face in the yard, field, barn or home.

For the fourth year, the Ice Cream Churn-Off Contest drew hundreds of observers as contestants prepared ice cream that was then judged and samples distributed to the crowd.

Here are some pictures that provide a synopsis of the reasons why so many people attend Ag Progress each year.

Few people have the privilege of viewing Ag Progress displays in a carriage. These 14-month-old triplets, Eli, Caleb, and John, are the children of Carl and Jill Campbell of Pine Grove. The Campbells visit every year because Carl grew up in the area. He is now a pastor and said that almost all his members are involved in some way with agriculture.

Dwight Woelkers, who normally serves as director of marketing for Hatfield Quality Meats, is president of the state FFA Foundation and dons a chef's hat to perpare ribs for the Foundation's food booth at Ag Progress Days.

Greg Hoover, PSU entomologist, explains about a particular pest to visitors. Hoover and the bank of Penn State College of Agricultural Science experts manned an "Ask the Experts" tent during Ag Progress.

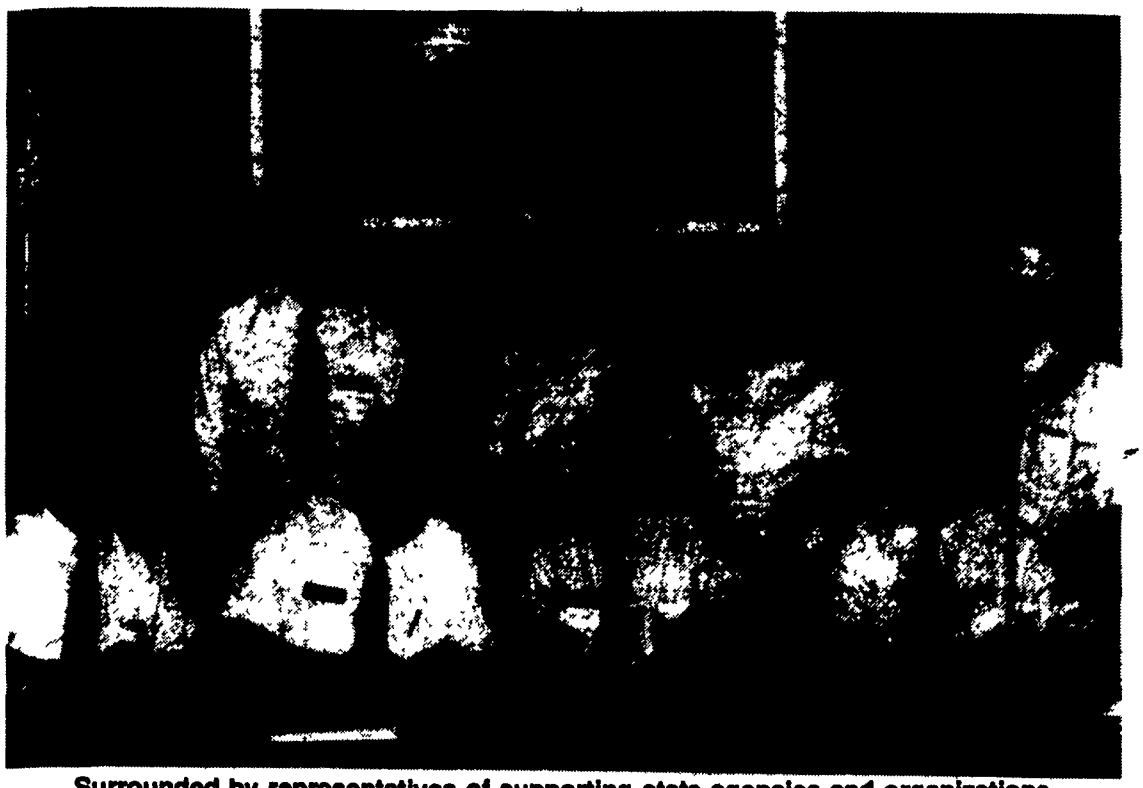
Mark Fairbrass explains differences between talons of raptors to a young bird enthusiast. Fairbrass is a program assistant at Shaver's Creek Raptor Center.

Leo and Dawn Luchi, apple growers from Conyngham, with Jean Derr and her husband from Hazleton, find some shade under a tent to enjoy lunch. Luchi said that he really likes to see what's new in agriculture, walk through the orchards, and enjoy the farmlands.

David and Beth Mummert of Chambersburg breathe a sigh of relief after they finish churning Peanut Butter Fudge Chip Ice Cream.

The crowd sought comfortable positions to watch the Ice Cream Churn-Off Contest.

Agricultural Leaders Sign Memorandum



Surrounded by representatives of supporting state agencies and organizations, state Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff signs his name to a memoradum of understanding between all agencies involved with regulating and supporting agriculture that they will be cooperative and not contradictory — a One Plan program. Smiling is Lambert Hood, dean of the PSU College of Agricultural Sciences, who was the first to sign.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Pennsylvania's agricultural leaders on Tuesday signed a memorandum of understanding to take effect immediately to operate under a one-plan-per-farm beauracracy in an effort to eliminate waste, confusion, frustration, and unneccessary travel, delays and repetition of work for all involved.

Immediately following a PSU Ag Progress Days' meeting of the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences Alumni Society (CAAS) in the Rockspring facility's Agriculture Special Events Building, leaders of the major farming organizations, and federal, state and local agencies sat down to sign a memorandum of understanding between all involved.

The memorandum calls for each agency to cooperate with other agencies while attempting to fulfill its particular mission.

According to a news release from Barry Frantz, project coordinator for the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, "The memorandum calls for groups to work together to eliminate conflicts and duplication between different programs, change burdensome rules, regulations, policies and procedures, share information and accept common technical standards.

"The One Plan concept has been the subject of a two-year pilot project which will finish on Sept. 30 this fall," said Frantz in the statement.

"Conservation districts in Lehigh, Northumberland and York counties, and later in Centre, Erie and Union counties, coordinated efforts of multi-organizational teams which worked with farmers to develop coordinated, integrated management plans.

"Farmers in the project recommended that agencies and organizations continue the One Plan program after the pilot project was over in an effort to further improve programs and services," according to Frantz.

On Tuesday, signing the agreement were Lamartine Hood, dean of the PSU College of Agricultural Sciences, Boyd Wolff, state secretary of agriculture, Caren Glotflety, deputy secretary for water management for the DER, Greg Grabowicxz, representing the state Game Commission, Cheryl Cook, state director of the Farmer's Home Administration, Rex Wright, representing the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Dick Duncan, state conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service, Gordon Hiller, state master of the Pennsylvania State Grange; Tim Bowser, executive director fo the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture; and Francis McGrail, president of the Pennsylvania Agronomic Products Association.

Other agencies which have indicated an intention also to sign the document include the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (which sponsored the one plan pilot project), the state Fish and Boat Commission, and the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

A representative of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association/Farm Bureau was not present, nor was the statewide organization mentioned at the signing. The PFA/Farm Bureau was not contacted prior to presstime.

Dairy Promotion Nominations Needed

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program is seeking nominations for its Commodity Marketing Board.

The purpose of the Program is to promote the consumption of milk and other dairy products and to facilitate appropriate research. The Commodity Marketing Board has the authority and responsibility to manage the Program and disburse marketing funds. Currently, 21 members serve on the Board, and the terms of six members are scheduled to expire on Sept. 30.

Board members will be selected by State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff from nominations made by producers and dairy-related organizations, associations, and cooperatives representing dairy farmers throughout Pennsylvania.

New appointees to the Board will serve three year terms. Board members are expected to attend regular board meetings and participate in other dairy-related functions.

Nominees must be active in the production of milk, including, but not limited to, representatives of milk cooperatives and farming associations, producer-handlers of milk or an independent dairy farm.

In addition, the appointees are expected to contribute their dairy promotion assessment to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

The deadline for submitting nominations is August 27. Nominees' names and addresses should be submitted to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Market Development, 2301 N. Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408.

LOCK IN PROFITS WITH...

(trenbolone acetate + estradiol)

Increase feed efficiency and weight gain in a SINGLE IMPLANT!

Revalor®-s is the new growth promotant from Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Company, for improved performance in a single implant.

Revalor®-s helps you maximize your profits safely, efficiently and better than any progesterone/estradiol implant on the market.

A cattle feeder's profits depend on better feed efficiency and higher average daily gains. The right combination of trenbolone acetate plus estradiol is proven to produce gains more quickly and economically than other implants. Until now, cattle feeders have not had a single implant to obtain these results.

Now Revalor®-s combines the best chemistry in a single implant to give you improved performance, so you can design the program to best meet your needs.

- increase average daily gains
- improve feed efficiency
- improve man power utilization

Couple Reproduces Shaker-Style Furniture

BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Five years ago when Paul and Bonnie Rung displayed their Shaker-style furniture at craft shows, they'd overhear people say, "I don't like this stuff, it's too plain." Now that Shaker furniture is "in," they're kept busy in their workshop to fill their orders.

Bonnie Rung attributes the heightened popularity of the style to the numerous magazine articles on Shaker furniture that have been published in the past few years.

All the furniture the Rungs make is in the Shaker style — utilitarian and simple in design, a reflection of the lifestyle of the Shakers themselves, members of a religious sect that practiced celibacy and an ascetic communal lifestyle. Some pieces are exact reproductions of pieces made by the Shakers, such as the arm chairs, rockers and ladder back chairs. Various Shaker communities had different styles of furniture, Mrs. Rung said.

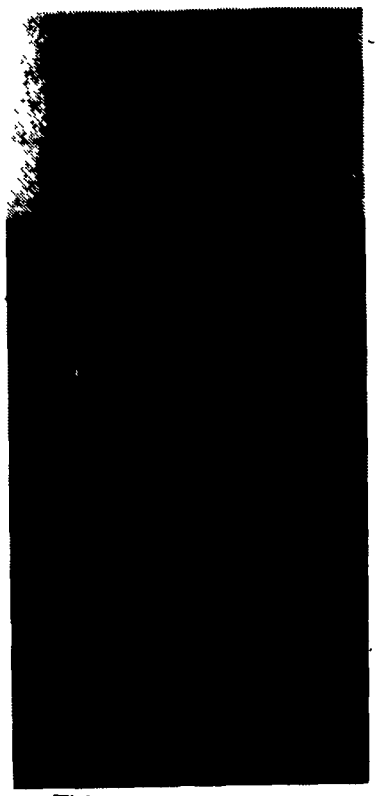
The Rungs also make some Colonial reproductions such as pencil post beds and Windsor chairs.

"Their pieces have a real authenticity," said Gloria Saberin, Chambersburg author, who has written three woodworking books. "They fit in well with real antiques."

The Rungs unapologetically use modern shop equipment to produce the old-fashioned furniture. "The Shakers would have used power tools if they had been available," Mrs. Rung said. "They probably would have modified them and made them better. They were a practical people."

Although they have a showroom at their Mont Alto Road workshop, juried craft shows are their main outlet. They attend about 25 shows a year from New England to Virginia.

Paul Rung, 49, became interested in Shaker furniture as a teenager. His father, who was in construction, taught him the fundamentals of woodworking. Rung worked out the details of cabinet making for himself by reading, examining old furniture, and visiting other wood shops.



This chest of drawers is made of birdseye maple and cherry.

Paul Rung gave up a teaching career to create Shaker and colonial style furniture with his wife, Bonnie.

Rung was a forestry professor for 12 years, most recently at the Mont Alto campus of Pennsylvania State University. During his teaching career, he maintained his interest in woodworking by making small Shaker items for his family. Ten years ago, he quit teaching to create furniture full time.

"We had always wanted to do something together," he said. "We had started the woodworking business while I was still teaching, and we made a smooth transition."

But one night in November 1991 nearly everything the couple had worked for was lost. An electrical fire destroyed the two-story barn that housed their workshop. They had been at show in Connecticut the previous weekend and hadn't unloaded the van, so that furniture was safe, but everything in the shop — machinery and inventory — was ruined.

"People we didn't know rallied around us. They offered us tools and shop space. We were at work the next week in two different locations," Paul said.

In January 1992, a barn-raising crew erected the present building.

Rung does the woodworking in his half of the shop, while his wife, along with some hired help, does the finishing in her half. All items are handfinished with oil-based stain and paste wax. Table tops receive a moisture-resistant spray.

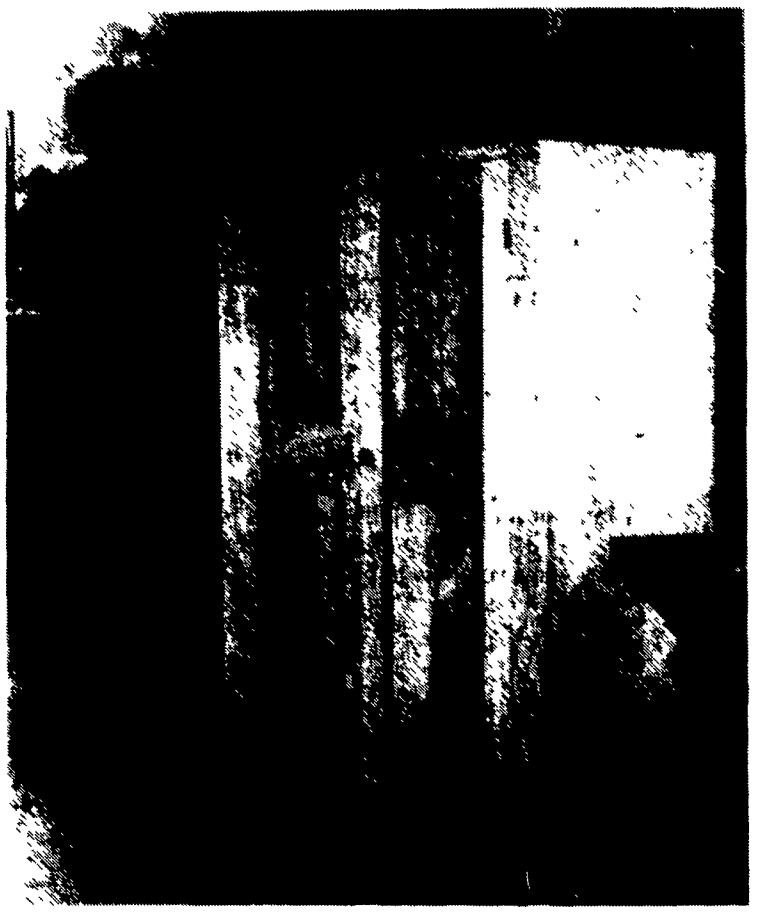
The backs of the ladder back chairs and the top of the Windsor chairs are steam-bent. Rung steams the cut-out piece, bends it over his knee, then lets it dry on a frame. All the furniture has mortise and tenon joints, which are glued, then pegged.

Although patterns for the curved sections of furniture hang in the workshop, Rung said that he would never sell his last chair. He takes measurements from an existing chair when creating new ones.

The Rungs used to wholesale some items, but find they prefer dealing with their customers in person. Some customers want details of a piece changed, and, armed with a few measurements, Rung constructs it according to their specifications.

One customer, for example, wanted a Shaker storage cabinet made 4-inches deeper to accommodate her television set. He occasionally works from a photograph.

Rung finds the work rewarding. "It's fun to have people excited about having you make them something," he said.



Paul Rung does the final hand sanding on a Shaker linen press that will be used as an entertainment center.

Bonnie Rung hand finishes the furniture her husband makes.

Steer Children Away For High Fat Foods

Taking your children out to eat does not mean giving up good nutrition. You can help your children make wise choices whether they are at fast food restaurants or sitting down to more traditional fare.

Foods high in fat, salt and empty calories can be avoided. Instead of a cheeseburger and French fries, try a grilled chicken sandwich or a broiled lean meat hamburger. Add lettuce and tomato but hold the high-fat toppings such as bacon, mayonnaise and special sauce.

To round out the meal choose low-fat milk or fruit juice. For dessert, treat the youngsters to low-fat yogurt or animal cookies rather than a fried pastry.

Pizza and Mexican food are also popular with the young set. If your family opts for pizza, order a thin-crust version topped with ground beef or mushrooms, green peppers and other vegetables instead of high-fat toppings like sausage and pepperoni.

The best bet for Mexican includes dishes made from soft corn tortillas. Chicken fajitas, rice and green salads — not to be confused with high-fat taco salads — also are healthy choices. For dessert, order flan instead of sopapillas. If possible, forgo the pre-meal chips.

At cafeterias, skip the fried dishes and help your children select broiled meats, grilled fish, baked chicken and steamed vegetables. Younger children tend to enjoy moist foods so you might consider casseroles, meat loaf or macaroni and cheese.

Although gelatin and whipped cream parfaits, pies and cakes look inviting, remember, they are loaded with sugar and fat. Fruit salads are a much healthier choice.

Look beyond the "child menu." Restaurants tend to lead their "kids corner" with high-fat foods such as corn dogs, fish sticks, French fries and chicken nuggets.

Fast foods in moderation will not sabotage an otherwise healthy diet. If you teach your children to enjoy a variety of foods, they will be able to make wise food selections and enjoy a lifetime of healthy eating.

Are your wheat profits getting lost at the mill?

You've just harvested your wheat crop and the yields look pretty good. Looks like you'll even make enough to pay your taxes. Then you haul the grain to the mill. It's weighed. And you find out your test weights are under 58 lb/bu.

So instead of getting full profit, you lose 8¢ for every bushel you produce. Even more if your test weights are substantially under 58 lb/bu. So much for paying off the taxes.

Maximize your profits with unmatched test weights.

With Hoffman 89, you'll get every penny from your wheat crop. In three-year trials conducted by Penn State and the University of Maryland, Hoffman 89 weighed in with the top test weight across all locations.

Best of all, it produced test weights of 58 lb/bu or more every single time, topping the mean test weight by at least 4%.

Get superior test weights without sacrificing yield.

But superior test weights are only half the story with Hoffman 89. You'll also get top-end yields that will have you smiling all the way to the bank.

Its 98 bu/A average, for example, produced a 5% advantage over the mean yield of 92.9 bu/A in Lancaster County trials. At $3.00 per bushel, you'd make $15.30 more per acre using Hoffman 89.

Winter hardiness boosts plant population.

Hoffman 89 features excellent winter hardiness to improve percent stand come spring. It also tillers better than many varieties to increase overall plant population. Superior standability and Powdery Mildew tolerance ensure maximum yield potential for added profitability.

Stop losing your profits at the mill.

Tired of losing your profits at the mill? Then call your local Hoffman sales representative. Or call Hoffman Seeds at 1-800-776-7929. We'll show you how to get the most from your wheat crop using Hoffman 89.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

What a difference a rain makes.

Just ask the thousands of folks in the Midwest who have spent their summer sandbagging, floating out, wading in, mucking up, hosing down — and wondering when it would all end. And why them?

Why anyone? After umpteem consecutive years of drought through the '80s, the feeling of "why us" on the short end of the weather stick is one farmers around these parts can identify with.

But has the weather really turned so much more weird in the last two decades? Or do we just keep better records dispersed more rapidly through today's instant communications systems, which keep us more abreast of weather abberrations?

The country seems to be suffering from the "Goldilocks" weather syndrome — it's too hot or too cold. Or too wet or too dry or too windy or too calm. It just isn't "normal." And, frankly, I've grown to suspect there is no such thing as "normal" weather.

Yet, we never cease to be amazed at how the "green stuff" of the world adapts — almost overnight — to weather abberrations.

Two weeks ago, many parts of York County were facing serious drought crop damage again. A "checkerboard" is how one soil specialist described conditions of moisture, with a little section here that got rain, and a little section there that looked Sahara-like. Next door to each other.

Leaning heavily on the dry side, our late corn, beans and hay showed little promise. 'Til Mother Nature blessed the region with a soaking rain and plants instantly perked up. Third-cutting alfalfa, showing the grayish hue of distress, poked up shoots of lush green. Curled corn unfurled and spread long leaves wide to soak up sun with new enthusiasm from thirst-quenched root systems. The heifers once again found new shoots of grass to graze in the meadow.

And the weeds went bananas. Especially in the flower border; I walked by one evening and suddenly realized the old enemy had struck with vengeance. Though they'd been lurking there in the bushes and daylilies, two inches of rain sent them spiraling skyward.

Ragweed. Ragweed grows six or eight feet tall in the rich, moist soil of our low-lying lawn. You could almost build tree houses in the really big ones, which develop similarly impressive root systems. So, you don't just go along and yank these guys out by the roots.

And, every ragweed that goes to seed spawns the growth next season of a gazillion descendants. To say nothing of the pollen the stuff spews into the air for hay-fever sufferers, a real case of natural air pollution.

This was war. Out came the big guns. Or in this case, a powerful limb-lopper acquired through a sale a few years ago, a tool worth fighting for - a nipper that would cheerfully take your finger off should you be so careless.

Even with that, it took some muscling to pinch its curved jaws through the inch-plus thick "trunks" of the sequoia-like ragweeds. After an hour of ragweed lumberjacking and numerous loads lugged to the brush pile, it looked as though the enemy just might be curtailed for the rest of the season.

Still, the ragweed managed to get in a few licks of its own. Dumped onto the brush pike weeks ago — and long since forgotten — were trimmings of a nasty sort of briar. The trimmings had virtually disappeared. Until I found them by stepping squarely wit'i both feet onto them while di.mping ragweeds. Barefooted.

Tiptoeing around the next day, I conceded once again that you can never . . . never . . . never get one up on Mother Nature.

Sometimes she enlists rather painful ways of reminding us of that. Like floods. Droughts. And even briars.

Food And Today's Lifestyle At Western Maryland Ag Field Day

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Gone are the days when people had the time to sit down and really plan their meals. The days when people ate without regard for nutritional information are obsolete too.

Today's consumer demands healthful food that can be obtained quickly without a lot of planning or preparation. The Home Economics Program at the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station's (MAES) Western Maryland Ag Field Day on September 9 will highlight ways people can make nutritious meal choices without wasting time.

By May 8, 1994, more than 90 percent of packaged foods will be required by the FDA to wear "Nutrition Facts" labels containing true and exact nutrition information, according to Maxine Casey, area Extension nutrition agent. The new labels, which require companies to disclose more detailed information about fat, cholesterol and carbohydrates, base recommended daily values on a 2,000-calories-per-day diet.

In a discussion called "The New Food Label," Casey will teach people how to use these labels to their benefit.

"The new food labels will help us all to make healthier and more educated decisions about the foods we eat," Casey said. "After we learn how to use the new labels, it will become a lot easier for people to compare foods at the grocery store."

She added, "In the future, when a product says it is 'light,' it will have to meet certain standards. We'll really be able to trust the products we buy."

Because people today eat most of their meals away from home, another Home Economics Program discussion called "Nutrition on the Run" will feature tips and suggestions for quick and healthy eating. Jeanne-Marie Holly, Baltimore County Extension home economics agent, said the discussion will compare current attitudes and trends about nutrition with today's lifestyle.

"There really is a paradox today — people want to eat healthy but need to eat in a hurry, so they grab a quarter-pound burger and fries," Holly said, adding, "Our goal is to teach people they can make wise, healthy decisions about food away from home."

In addition to the Home Economics Program, the 1993 Western Maryland Ag Field Day will offer other exciting and informative activities.

Concurrent wagon tours of MAES research will include topics such as: paulownia tree management; nutrient management and the Bay; high yield wheat management; crop residue management; weed control in corn; and pathogen and parasite control of leafhopper.

The Field Day will also include tillage and planting equipment demonstrations and agricultural equipment and farm service displays. Enjoy a hog roast featuring Maryland pork for a $2 fee paid the day of the event. Reservations for lunch are required.

For more information on the Western Maryland Ag Field Day, contact your local Cooperative Extension Service agent or the Western Maryland Research and Education Center at (301) 791-2298.

Farm Women Societies

York Society 26

Group #3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women held a family picnic at the home of Joan Loeb, Oley. Each member brought a covered dish and the recipe used to prepare it. Games, including bingo, highlighted the evening. Approximately 35 people were in attendance.

Berks Heim Hawaiian Festival will be held on Saturday, September 11, rain or shine. Farm Women will assist at the hamburger stand.

Raffle tickets for Berks County Society of Farm Women are still available. Prizes will be awarded at the County Convention on October 2 at the Ag Center.

The next meeting will be a trip to Lancaster to tour James Buchanan's Wheatland, followed by an afternoon of shopping.

Berks Society 3

York County Farm Women 26 entertained York County Group 20 at Alexanders Restaurant in York on July 13. There were a total of 29 in attendance. Barbara Malhorn, York County President, was a guest.

The county fair will be held at Bair at the 4-H Club on July 28.

The next meeting will be the group's annual picnic held at Beshore's pavilion on August 17 at 12:30 p.m. It will be a covered dish. The picnic committee will be in charge.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We have too many wild animals on our farm. One batch of our sweet corn has just been ransacked by raccoons. The electric fence was put up too late.

Often in the morning, I'll see a big red fox parade across the meadow, past the heifers, carrying a rabbit in its mouth. Even a neighbor's cat comes every night and empties the catfood dish. Our own cats eat enough without feeding a strange cat. Earlier in the year I would see an opossum that also came at night to eat whatever scraps he could find. My turning on the back porch light did not bother him at all, as he simply stood his ground.

Next year I do not think that I'll plant any cucumbers as the 12 plants are yielding so many. Every other day I can pickles and on alternate days, I can tomatoes. I've been able to give away some tomatoes and beans to my neighbors, who have no gardens, but I still have too many.

It is nice to get back to cooking for just Allen and I. The grandchildren who stayed with us this summer have varied appetites. Some barely eat at all and others really enjoy my cooking. One boy had not had chicken corn soup before but he liked it. And their choice of cereal in the morning is as varied as the children. Some eat it dry, some eat it with milk and some will only eat a banana for breakfast.

We sent them home with jars of Grandma's pickles and got a kiss in return.

STIHL

If you know a little about the timber business, you know that Stihl chain saws have been used by professional woodcutters for over sixty years

So maybe you think Stihl equipment is "too good" for a suburbanite or farmer or anyone else who needs to cut wood on an occasional basis

Well, we're happy to tell you that Stihl makes a whole series of chain saws with your needs in mind

But don't confuse them with discount-store chain saws

All Stihl saws are designed for performance, ease of handling and starting, and durability

Now, about the 026 shown at the bottom we'll admit we sell this saw to professional woodcutters But it's also bought by people who simply put a lot of hours on a saw every year

And by the way, when were you ever unhappy because you bought a product that was too good?

For The Part Of You That Promised You'd Never Compromise.

Have An Abundance Of Tomatoes? Try These Recipes

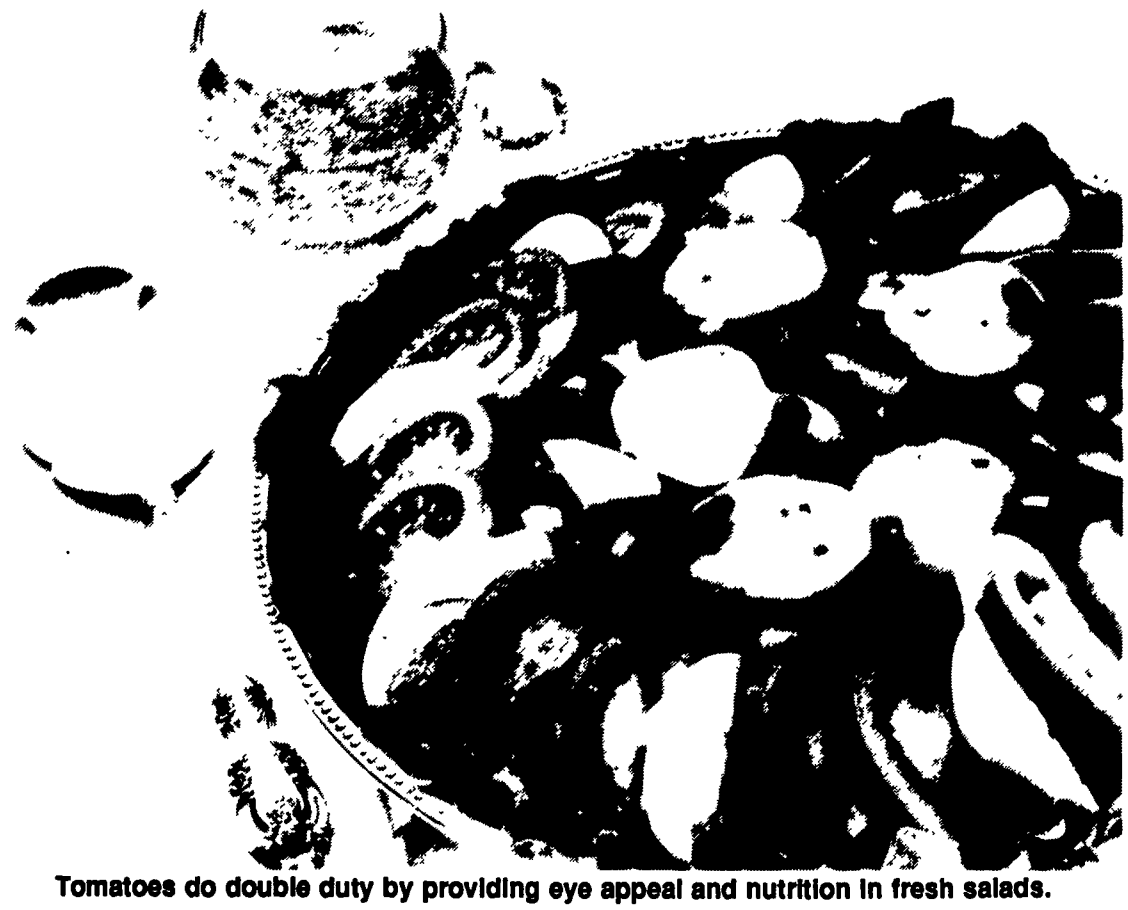
Vine-ripened tomatoes are one of the joys of summer, no matter how they are served. Layered with slices of fresh mozzarella and topped with fresh oregano, basil, and vinaigrette or tossed into salads, ripe summer tomatoes are at their peak from mid-July through mid-September.

Consumers buy more than 80 million pounds of Pennsylvania tomatoes each year. It takes more than 4,600 acres of farmland to grow that many tomatoes.

Small-sized tomatoes are traditionally used for sauces and casseroles, while medium and large sizes are used primarily for slicing. Jumbo varieties are frequently stuffed or served alone with dressing.

One medium tomato provides more than 40 percent of the daily allowances of vitamin C, 20 percent vitamin A, and is rich in potassium, with only 35 calories.

Tomatoes are a mainstay in many salads and sandwiches, and form the base for dozens of dressings and soups. Cooked tomatoes can be served stewed, fried, baked, or made into fresh salsa or spaghetti sauce.



Tomatoes do double duty by providing eye appeal and nutrition in fresh salads.

TOMATO AND CHEESE FILLED FOCACCIA

1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
2 cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons olive oil, divided
1 cup shredded provolone cheese
5 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese, divided
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 large ripe tomatoes, sliced thin

Dissolve yeast in warm water; let stand 5 minutes. Combine flour and salt in work bowl of food processor fitted with metal blade. Stir in yeast mixture and 3 tablespoons olive oil. Process until ingredients form a ball. Process 1 minute longer. Turn out onto lightly floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 2 minutes.

Place dough in oiled bowl. Turn dough over to oil top. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in bulk, about 30 minutes. Punch dough down. Let rest 5 minutes. Fit dough into oiled 10-inch cake pan, deep dish pizza pan or springform pan. Brush with 1 tablespoon olive oil. Cover and let rise 15 minutes. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until golden. Cool completely in pan on wire rack.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine provolone, ¼ cup parmesan, 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning and pepper. Cut baked focaccia horizontally in half. Place bottom on cookie sheet. Cover with sliced tomatoes. Sprinkle with cheese mixture. Cover with top of focaccia. Brush with remaining tablespoon olive oil; sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon parmesan cheese and ½ teaspoon Italian seasoning. Bake 10 minutes or until cheese inside is melted. Cut into wedges and serve immediately.

GRILLED WHITE GARDEN PIZZA

Crust:
1 tablespoon instant dry yeast
8 ounces warm water
2 tablespoons olive oil
3½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt

Topping:
3 cups ricotta cheese
3 cups mozzarella cheese, shredded
4 large tomatoes, sliced thin
Parsley
Oregano
Fresh pepper

In a small bowl, dissolve yeast in warm water. Combine flour and salt and place on a flat work surface. Make a well in the center and pour in yeast mixture and 2 tablespoons olive oil. Stir together with a fork. Knead until smooth, adding additional flour if necessary. Divide dough into 6 equal portions and place in a lightly oiled bowl. Cover and set aside for 1 hour.

To make pizza; flatten dough on floured surface into six individual crusts. Spread ½ cup Ricotta cheese over each crust and top each with approximately 6 tomato slices. Sprinkle ½ cup of Mozzarella cheese over tomato and top with seasonings.

Using large spatula, place assembled pizza on grill over medium-high heat and cover. Cook pizza approximately four minutes or until bottom of crust is browned and cheese is melted.

PITA VEGETABLE PATTIES

Herb dressing:
1 cup skim milk
1 cup plain nonfat yogurt
1-ounce original ranch salad dressing mix

Vegetable patties:
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons minced green onions
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 cup shredded zucchini
½ cup chopped red pepper
½ cup chopped fresh mushrooms
½ cup shredded carrot
1 cup shredded Provolone cheese
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 eggs
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon pepper
6 slices tomato
3 large pita pockets

For herb dressing, combine all ingredients, mix well. Refrigerate, covered, 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend.

For vegetable patties, melt butter in large skillet. Saute green onion and garlic until tender, about 3 minutes. Add zucchini, red pepper, mushroom, and carrot. Saute an additional 5 minutes. Stir frequently. Place vegetable mixture in large mixing bowl. Stir in cheese. Add flour; toss to combine. Stir in eggs, Worcestershire sauce, and pepper; mix well. Spray skillet with vegetable cooking spray. Heat over medium heat until hot. Spread approximately ½ cup batter for each patty onto hot skillet. Brown on both sides. Keep warm.

To assemble, wrap pita bread loosely in plastic wrap. Microwave on high for 1 minute. Quickly cut each vertically in half. Open each half to form pocket. Place 1 vegetable patty and 1 tomato slice in each half. Spoon 2 tablespoons herb dressing over each. Serve immediately. Remaining dressing will keep in covered bowl in refrigerator up to 5 days. Use as salad dressing).

BLENDER KETCHUP

24 pounds ripe tomatoes
2 pounds onions
1 pound sweet red peppers
1 pound sweet green peppers
9 cups vinegar
9 cups sugar
½ cup canning or pickling salt
3 tablespoons dry mustard
1½ tablespoon ground red pepper
1½ teaspoon whole allspice
1½ tablespoon whole cloves
3 sticks cinnamon

Wash tomatoes and dip in boiling water for 30 to 60 seconds or until skins split. Dip in cold water, slip off skins, core, and quarter. Remove seeds from peppers and slice into strips. Peel and quarter onions. Blend tomatoes, peppers, and onions at high speed for 5 seconds in blender. Pour into a 3- to 4-gallon stock pot or large kettle and heat. Boil gently 60 minutes, stirring frequently. Add vinegar, sugar, salt, and spice bag containing dry mustard, red pepper, and other spices. Continue boiling and stirring until volume is reduced one-half and ketchup rounds up on a spoon with no separation of liquid and solids. Remove spice bag and fill jars, leaving ¼-inch headspace. Adjust lids and process pint jars in boiling water bath for 15 minutes.

Young Dairy Promoters Train At Mini Seminar

CLARION (Clarion Co.) — Pennsylvania's Dairy Industry can look forward to having a large and enthusiastic group of young people trained and ready to promote its products and its way of life. More than 100 dairy-related young people between the ages of 10 and 16 have joined the 61 county dairy princesses and alternates to assist with the job of representing the industry.

Nearly seventy of these young people accompanied by 26 adults attended the one-day training seminar held July 30 at Penn State's Ag Arena. Sponsored and organized by Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services, Inc., the seminar was conducted by current or former Pennsylvania dairy royalty-young people who have "been there themselves" as local dairy promoters. The workshop leaders included reigning state Princess Crystal Schweighofer and alternates Jennifer Rosenberry and Sandra Gross as well as 1990 Pa. Princess Kristin Metzker Russell and 1989 Pa. Alternate Angela Spickler. Also presenting a workshop for the young male promoters was former Jefferson County Ambassador Dan McClelland of Minaka Farms, Reynoldsville. Special sessions on Animal Welfare were conducted for the adults and the young people by Dr. Mary Beth Bennett of Penn State University.

Following an introductory session in which each diary maid, ambassador, or junior representative had the opportunity to introduce him or herself, the group was divided into three sections. Each section rotated to three 50-minute workshops through the day.

The workshops centered around a variety of topics including - "The Basics-Cows, Products, Industry Facts and Nutrition"; "Speaking and Interviews-Fun not Fearsome" and "My Image-What to Wear, What to Do, and How to Do It." Concluding the program was a general session with skits and discussion by the leaders on the "how not to promote" as well as the "how to's."

A special session was also conducted for the adults by dairy princess coordinators Mim Kauffman and Mary Herman and program director Jan Harding to explain the functions of the Dairy Princess Program and the importance of the Dairymaid/Ambassador program in relation to it.

Abundance Of Tomatoes?

CHILI SALSA

5 pounds tomatoes
2 pounds chile peppers
1 pound onions
1 cup vinegar
3 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper

Caution: Wear rubber gloves while handling chilies or wash hands thoroughly with soap and water before touching your face. Peel and prepare chile peppers by placing them in 400 degee oven for 6-8 minutes or until skins blister.

Allow peppers to cool. Place in a pan and cover with a damp cloth. This will make peeling the peppers easier. After several minutes, peel each pepper. Cool and slip off skins, Discard seeds and chop peppers. Wash tomatoes and dip in boiling water for 30 to 60 seconds or until skins split. Dip in cold water, slip off skins, and remove cores. Coarsely chop tomatoes and combine chopped peppers, onions, and remaining ingredients in a large saucepan. Heat to boil, and simmer 10 minutes. Fill pint jars, leaving ½ -inch headspace. Adjust lids and process in boiling water bath for 15 minutes.

ANSWER — A.A. Min, Geneva, N.Y., wanted a recipe for ready-to-use frosting. It was unclear on whether or not she wanted to make the frosting from scratch or if she wanted recipes to use the purchased frosting. Thanks to a Reading reader who sent in a recipe with the warning: Hold on to your hat! This is outlandishly rich and scrumptious.

Fudge-Filled Peanut Butter Bars Cake

2 eggs
1 package yellow cake mix
1 cup peanut butter
½ cup melted butter

Combine ingredients and mix with a spoon. Press two-thirds of dough into ungreased 9x13-inch pan.

Filling:

1 cup chocolate chips
1 cup sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons butter

Melt filling ingredients over low heat, stirring occasionally until chips are melted. Remove from heat and add:

1 container cream cheese frosting

Mix well. Spread on top of dough. Sprinkle remaining dough (in lumps) over top. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

ANSWER — Melanie Kozlowski, Kingsby, wanted a recipe for mousse such as that served at Ponderosa. I don't know if these taste the same as that served by Ponderosa, but here are two that are great. Also, I'm printing a recipe from the American Dairy Council, which is low fat, low sugar, and low calories.

Chocolate Mousse

6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
½ cup hot brewed coffee
4 eggs, separated
¾ to 1 teaspoon brandy or rum extract
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
3 tablespoons sugar
Whipped cream, optional

Place chocolate pieces in blender container. Cover and blend at medium speed 10 seconds. Scrape down sides of blender container with rubber spatula, if necessary. Add coffee. Cover and blend at medium speed 5 seconds. Add egg yolks and extract. Cover and blend at medium speed 15 seconds or until smooth. In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy. Add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating constantly until sugar is dissolved and whites are glossy and stand in soft peaks. Gently, but thoroughly, fold chocolate mixture into whites. Pour into 8 pot de creme cups. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Garnish with whipped cream, if desired.

Rasberry Yogurt Mousse

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 cups fresh raspberries or 2 containers (10 oz. each) frozen raspberry in syrup, thawed and drained
3 tablespoons honey
8-ounces plain yogurt
½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
¼ cup whipping cream

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Cool. Puree raspberries in blender or food processor. Combine pureed fruit, honey, yogurt, lemon peel, and gelatin mixture. Refrigerate, covered, at least 4 hours. Just before serving, whip cream until soft peaks form. Fold into raspberry mixture. Divide mixture evenly between 4 glasses. Refrigerate up to 1 hour.

Cappuccino Mousse

½ cup boiling water
2 teaspoons instant coffee
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
3 (8-ounce) containers coffee-flavored yogurt, at room temperature
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
3 egg whites
½ cup sugar

Dissolve coffee in boiling water; cool to room temperature. Soften gelatin in coffee mixture. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Combine yogurt, vanilla, and cinnamon in large mixer bowl. Gradually beat in gelatin mixture. Refrigerate yogurt mixture until slightly thickened. Beat egg whites in small mixer bowl until foamy. Gradually beat in sugar until stiff peaks form. Gently fold into chilled yogurt mixture. Refrigerate 3 to 4 hours. To serve, spoon into 8 decorative glasses.

CANNED SPAGHETTI SAUCE WITHOUT MEAT

30 pounds tomatoes
1 cup onions, chopped
5 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup celery or green pepper, chopped
1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced, optional
4½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons oregano
4 tablespoons parsley, minced
2 teaspoons black pepper
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vegetable oil

Wash tomatoes and dip in boiling water for 30 to 60 seconds or until skins split. Dip in cold water; slip off skins. Remove cores and quarter tomatoes. Boil 20 minutes, uncovered, in large saucepan. Squeeze out juice with a food mill or sieve. Saute onions, garlic, celery, or peppers and mushroooms in vegetable oil until tender. Combine sauteed vegetables and tomatoes and add remainder of spices, salt, and sugar. Bring to a boil. Simmer, uncovered, until thick enough for serving. At this time, the initial volume will have been reduced by nearly one-third. Stir frequently to avoid burning. Fill quart jars, leaving 1-inch headspace. Adjust lids and process jars in pressure canner at 11 pounds pressure for 25 minutes.

MOUNTAIN HOUSE CATSUP

1 tablespoon cloves
½ tablespoon allspice
1 tablespoon cinnamon
6 large white onions
2 tablespoons fresh ground black pepper
1 tablespoo red pepper
½ tablespoon mace
1 peck ripe tomatoes
½ gallon mild vinegar
2 tablespoons dry mustard

Pound together cloves, allspice, cinnamon, onions, and pepper. Put diced tomatoes onions, and vinegar in kettle and boil. Leave enough vinegar to moisten mustard and pepper. Add after tomatoes are well cooked and pressed through a sieve Add 1 cup brown sugar and cook until thick. If this amount of brown sugar does not suit your tastes, add more. Bottle at once in sterilized pint jars, cap, and boil in hot water bath for 10 minutes.

Contributor writes that this is a very old recipe from a collection of Mountain House Recipes used at least by four generations of Rodgers.

4-H'ers Named To Honors Group At Fashion Revue

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Honors went to 10 contestants at the annual State 4-H Fashion Revue, held July 28 in Eisenhower Auditorium on Penn State's University Park Campus.

Sixty regional finalists modeled outfits designed as part of thier 4-H projects. Judges selected honors recipients on construction skill, garment fit, appropriateness and modeling poise.

Judith Mains (not show in photo), daughter of Donald and Miriam Mains of Duncannon, was selected to represent Pennsylvania in the National 4-H Fashion Revue, to be held at the National 4-H Club Congress in December in Chicago. She modeled a double-breasted jacket and skirt ensemble that she will wear at the 1993 Environmental Summit.

Melinda Kovac, daughter of Michael and Linda Kovac of Trafford, modeled a formal gown of green and fuschia dupioni silk.

Trisha Gallagher, daughter of William and Janet Gallagher of Uniontown, modeled a sporty jogging suit of tangerine, purple and teal rip-stop nylon.

Tracey Ross, daughter of Maurice and Cindy Ross, Jr., of Latrobe, modeled a three-piece ensemble of corduroy print in navy and cream.

Leah Algier, daughter of Jay and Michele Algier of Honey Brook, modeled a loose-fitting western style blouse fashioned from four different cotton fabrics, black slacks, and handmade necklace and earrings.

Jeanne McCuean, daughter of Donald and Linda McCuean of New Galilee, modeled a snappy western outfit, featuring a plaid wool vest with an eye-catching lapel of black ultrasuede cut in western swirls.

Melissa Brown, daughter of Mel and Mary Ann Brown of Greensburg, modeled an all-wool

Hey! Folks

If your cows are slipping and falling, it ain't my fault because I have a machine called a Scabbler that will fix that concrete so your cows won't keep slipping all the time.

We've got service all around this section of the country, and I have a fellow just jumping to do your job mighty fast.

And that ain't all, our prices are right reasonable, and if you're a tightwad we'll let you do the job yourself if you've got over 500 square feet. It can save you right smart a money.

So call me on my nickel at 800-692-0123. If I'm not by the phone, some real live person will take your number, and I'll try to get back to you real soon. Usually somebody is awake in this outfit, so you just call any time day or night. But, please mind the Lord, and don't call on Sunday.

Just one more thing. We fellows make our living doing this kind of work, and we've got children to feed and bills. That's our side of it, but you've got such things too. A lot of people tell us that this Scabbling saves a whole lot more than it costs. So go ahead and do it. It'll put shoes on everybody's feet.

Be looking to hear from you folks right soon.

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.)

— "I like 4-H because it is a lot of fun."

"I learn a lot in 4-H."

These comments were from 4-H'ers who attended the Lancaster County 4-H Fair held at Lampeter Fairgrounds last week. These 4-H members entered more than 1,200 projects in the Fair. The projects were judged and awarded ribbons, and in some competitions, the winner receives trophies and money.

Four-H is for boys and girls from ages 8 to 19. It offers many opportunities for learning, achieving, and having fun. On this page, you will see some of the ways that 4-H'ers have fun at the fair.

The 4-H idea has spread around the world to the point where programs similar to 4-H now exist in more than 80 countries with about 5,000,000 members.

Perhaps you did not attend this Fair but are a member of 4-H and will attend a 4-H Fair in your county.

If you are not a member of 4-H, you may become one. Check the phone directory for the telephone number of the 4-H organization nearest you. It is listed under Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Meagan East, 16, paints a horse on the face of Elizabeth Young, 10. "It helps to have artistic talent if you want happy customers," Meagan said of the services provided by the Diamond 4-H Horseman.

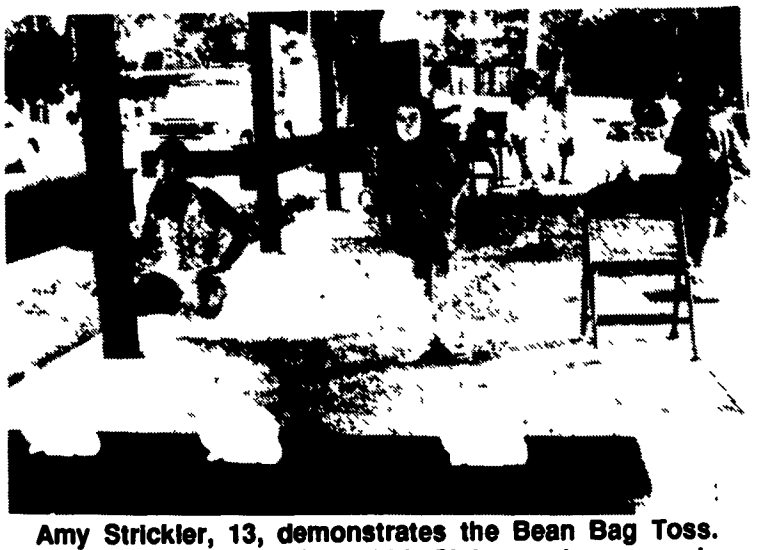
For the first time at the 4-H show, a goat show was held. Members of the newly formed Lancaster County Goat Club show pgymy goats, which are stockier and shorter than other goats. From right are Kim Landis, Rebecca Landis, and Michael Stoner.

For a fee, visitors at the 4-H Fair could try their hands at steer roping. Daniel Talbot, 13, said that the event, sponsored by the Boots and Saddles Club, was new at the 4-H Fair.

Stephanie Greiner and children, Alisha, 12; Elizabeth, 9; Nielsen, 5; and Allen, 2, participate in the Mastersonville 4-H Dart Throw while Linda Siegrist, center, watches.



Amy Strickler, 13, demonstrates the Bean Bag Toss. Members of the SoLanCo Rabbit Club use the proceeds from the Toss for field trips.

Bollinger Shows Champion Market Lamb At 4-H Fair

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Jerry Bollinger polished off his final year at the Lancaster County 4-H Fair by showing the champion market lamb.

"It was a total surprise," Bollinger said of his 97-pound medium Dorset that bested 77 other market lambs for the title.

Judge Tim Hall of Dalmatia was impressed with the Dorset's length of loin and muscling and its wide body loins. Bollinger and his two brothers raise about 30 head of Suffolk breeding stock and Dorset market lambs on their parents', Raymond and Sharon Bollinger's, Ephrata farm.

Elvin Yeagley, sheep breeder and hearing aid dealer, purchased the grand champion for $2.05 per pound. Bollinger said that he would bank the money for his college fund. The recent graduate of Ephrata High School plans to attend Penn State-Berks Campus in January.

The 115-pound reserve champion, shown by Lisa Reiff, was purchased for $1.90 per pound by Gerald Phillips of Keystone Farm Credit.

Lisa and her brother, Lyndon, children of Laura and Lloyd Reiff, raise Suffolks on the family farm in Strasburg. The reserve champion had been purchased from Tom Slack. Lisa said that the win was a surprise because the sheep had been sick and it has taken a while to nurse it back to health. Because Lyndon, who is usually Lisa's strongest competition, is attending school in New Zealand, Lisa showed two sheep for him. One took the reserve champion middleweight title.

Fifteen-year-old Lisa was also named reserve champion showman.

Mark Tracy, who has been showing since he was eight years old, took the championship show-

Lancaster 4-H Fair Kicks Off County Fair Season

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — In the sheep barn, rows of prospective showmen filled the benches to watch exhibitors lead clean-shorn lambs in smooth, fluid strides around the showring. Fathers, trying hard to appear nonchalant, leaned against the wooden railing while keeping an eager eye on junior's and Susie's performance in the show ring. Mothers stood guard at the individual livestock pens, ready to assist their children in maneuvering stubborn lambs in and out of the pens.

For fairgoers, the whiffs of sawdust and the bleating of sheep at the Lampeter Fairgrounds last week meant only one thing: the beginning of Lancaster County's Fair season.

The three-day Lancaster County 4-H Fair held August 11-13, attracted hundreds of participants and bystanders for the livestock shows, demonstrations, games, and old-fashioned fun.

It was an opportunity for club members to show off the skills and knowlege that they have gained through club participation. Judging was completed for club projects, sheep, steers, goats, rabbits, horses, showmanship, how-to presentations, and speaking skills.

Many of the 4-H clubs operated food and game stands. The proceeds from these stands are used to pay for club activities and projects.

While the 4-H Fair provides excellent opportunities for members to gain confidence and recognition for their labors, success would not be possible without the hundreds of hours that parents, leaders, and others donate to the program.

(Turn to Page B15)

Lancaster County Dairy Princess Marci Harnish and James Barrett judge the commodity contest. Participants range from 8 to adult ages. Before the audience, contestants demonstrated how to prepare foods using dairy products.

How does a parent who spends days every week hauling kids and animals to fair competition find time for household chores? If you are Kendy Allen, you shell lima beans at the fair.

Elaine Craig, 4-H Exchange leader, grills hamburgers and hot dogs while members Becky Aukamp, 16, and Jeff LeFevre, 14, mann the stand.

Three-month-old Frederick Christian gets an early introduction to the Fair by his mother, Nancy Frey of Quarryville. The Freys raise sheep and help mann the sheep show.

The crowd forms a semicircle to watch contestants in the Showman of Showman contest.

It is not uncommon for parents to arise at 5 a.m. to load livestock, children, and assorted paraphernalia into a pickup truck, unload, spend the day at the fair, reload and deliver both animals and children into their respective beds before hitting the sack themselves around midnight.

Some families enter livestock in as many as 20 fairs annually. The time commitment required is almost like a full-time job. Indeed, it is most difficult to complete gardening, household, and barn chores while attending these events.

Through experience, some parents like Kendy Allen of Manheim have learned to take work along.

At the 4-H Fair, Kendy sat on the tailgate of her pickup truck shelling lima beans.

"We rush around like crazy getting here and then we have a couple of hours wait for the judging," Kendy said.

She finds it difficult to sit and do nothing especially when there's work to be done at home. So she brings along her Bible for private devotions and lima beans to shell before she makes a return trip to cook supper for her husband, feed the animals in the barn, and then return to the fair for the evening events.

Kerra's Special Oreo Milkshakes requires a blender and dairy products says Kerra Allen of Manheim.

Jeff LeFevre demonstrates how to make homemade vanilla ice cream during the commodity contest.

While 4-H'ers operate the food stands, it's usually the parents who prepare the food and make sure that things run smoothly.

Elaine Craig from Nottingham said that it's been about six years since she has been helping out at the 4-H Fair. She was grilling hamburgers and hot dogs for the Exchange Club to sell. The money raised at this and other fairs and auctions enables members to fly to places such as Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Kansas where they spend a week in 4-H homes in these states. The following year, 4-H members reciprocate by hosting 4-H'ers from the states they visited.

These exchanges broaden the perspective of 4-H'ers who get a chance to see other areas and eat ethnic foods.

"It was like culture shock when we went to Louisiana. We did not have a potato to eat all week. Instead, they fed us Cajun food — rice and beans."

As a result of that visit, Craig prepares rice dishes at least weekly for her family. "I learned the right way to cook rice when I was there," she said.

Many of the exchange members continue to correspond with their host families.

At the 4-H Fair, more than 1,200 projects entered by 4-H'ers were judged.

Four-H'ers who have achieved recognition for their involvement and projects in 4-H clubs for several years were eligible to compete for scholarships. Scholarship winners are Jessica Hill, Conestoga, $500; Sharon LeFevre, Solanco, $500; Spring Younts, Holtwood, $1,000; and Outstanding 4-H'er Marilyn Holloway, Solanco, $1,500.

Competition in the Commodity Contest required participants to prepare food using dairy products. In the adult division, first-place went to Vonnie McLaughlin, Quarryville; second-place, Vicki LeFevre, Solanco. Senior division winner was Jeff LeFevre, Solanco. Junior division first-place was McKenzie Crump, Holtwood; second-place, Kerra Allen, Manheim.

HOMEMADE VANILLA ICE CREAM

5 eggs, beaten
1 heaping cup sugar
3-4 teaspoons vanilla
1 can condensed milk
1 pint heavy whipping cream
Milk
Rock salt

Mix together eggs, sugar, condensed milk, and whipping cream. Add vanilla. Pour mixture into ice cream freezer container. Add enough milk until freezer reaches fill line, about two-thirds full. Cover and place in ice cream freezer. Alternate layers of ice and rock salt. Amount varies according to directions for specific ice cream freezers. Crank until firm.

For diehard fairgoers, even newborn babies do not keep them from spending all day at the fair. Fred and Nancy Frey of Quarryville took care of 3-month-old Frederich Christian while helping out in the sheep barns.

"We're giving him an early introduction to showing sheep," Nancy said.

Regardless of the work, time, and commitment required, veteran fairgoers agree: There's no better time than fair time. It gets in your blood.

KERRA'S SPECIAL OREO MILK SHAKE

4 scoops ice cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon sugar
3 oreo cookies

Put ingredients in blender container and blend for 30 seconds to 1 minute.

ICE CREAM COOKIE SANDWICH

First-place winner

½ gallon ice cream

Cut ice cream into ½-inch slices. With round cookie cutter, cut out circles of ice cream. Place ice cream circle on cookie. Top with another cookie. Eat or place in plastic sandwich bag and freeze until ready to eat.

Peanut butter cookies and vanilla ice cream were used, but you can combine any flavor of cookies and ice cream.

Make A Living Will

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The living will law went into effect April 16, 1992 in Pennsylvania, but if you haven't checked into a hospital lately you may not have realized it.

Facing a gall bladder surgery, I visited the hospital for my pre-admission testing. I had my urine, blood, heart, and lungs checked.

Then I got a surprise. Someone wanted to know about my "advance directives". I shouldn't have been surprised. As county extension director for Penn State Cooperative Extension in Wayne County, I have written articles about living wills and sent out many copies of a Penn State publication "Living Will: Your Advance Directive for Health Care". But somehow I never found the time to sit down and prepare my own living will. Now days before my surgery I must make the time. It's definitely not the best time to do this, while I'm concerned about my surgery. On the positive side it is forcing me to think about what medical care I want and what I don't want. I'm also talking with my husband and children about these issues. I'm encouraging my husband and 18-year-old daughter to make their own living wills.

None of us knows when we might need this important document. Do yourself and your family a favor — make time now to sit down and discuss this issue. If you want more information and a sample living will, request the Penn State publication "Living Will: Your Advice Directive for Health Care" from your local Penn State Cooperative Extension Office or call the Wayne County Extension office (717) 253-5970 ext. 239.

manship title. It was his first win at 4-H roundup competition, but he has earned the title at other county fairs.

The 17-year-old is the son of Gerald and Helen Tracy of Elizabethtown.

Gerald Phillips of Keystone Farm Credit purchases the reserve champion from Lisa Reiff.

A cousin to Lisa, Kendall Reiff, sold his reserve champion heavyweight for $2 a pound to Martin's Limestone. Kendall, son of Samuel and Elva Reiff of Ephrata, raises nine Hampshires and Suffolks. His reserve heavyweight was a homebred Hampshire.

"It was the best I ever did. I was really surprised," said 16-year-old Kendall.

Kerra Allen of Manheim took the Supreme Champion title with her Suffolk ewe lamb named Mississippi. The 12-year-old is the daughter of Keith and Kendy Allen of Manheim. She raises about 12 sheep. The supreme champion was purchased from Breeze View Farms.

Best owned and bred champion was a Dorset owned by Jessica Stoltzfus of Elizabethtown. The Dorset was also named Reserve Supreme Champion.

Mark Tracy's Southdown ewe lamb was named reserve best owned and breed.

Valerie Castro, daughter of Donald and Vernice Castro of Berlin, modeled a yellow and black houndstooth jacket and matching black-ribbed knit dress.

Myranda Caputo, daughter of Marie Thaler of Easton, modeled a jacket and dress ensemble woven of two contrasting colors of grosgrain ribbon.

Youth attending the State 4-H Fashion Revue were previously selected as county winners. As part of the revue, they participated in fashion and staging workshops. The Fashion Revue, conducted by Penn State Cooperative Extension, was part of Penn State 4-H Achievement Days, held July 27-29, 1993.

Farmers Market Nutrition Program

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The Farmer's Market Nutrition program is looking for Wayne County produce farmers who are interested in selling their produce through this program, according to Debra Bryant, Wayne County extension director. The purpose of the Farmer's Market Nutrition Program is to provide fresh fruits and vegetables to women, infants and children who are nutritionally at risk. At the same time, the program seeks to create new markets for Pennsylvania farmers.

Participants in the Women, Infant and Children (WIC) Supplemental Food Program receive checks that may be used to purchase only fresh, unprocessed fruits and vegetables from Pennsylvania farmers.

If you are a Wayne County vegetable or fruit grower and are interested in selling your produce through this program please contact: Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Farmer's Market Nutrition Program, 2301 North Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, (717) 787-5086.

Only Pennsylvania grown fruits and vegetables may be purchased with WIC Farmers' Market Nutrition Program Checks.

Note that citrus fruits (lemons, oranges, limes, grapefruit, tangerines) and topical fruits (bananas, pineapples, mangoes) cannot be purchased with Farmers' Market Nutrition Program checks. These fruits are not grown in Pennsylvania.

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $129 Million in Extra Payments

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past six years, we returned more than $129 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $36,600 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.7 million a month.

Robert B. McSparran
President

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Erie County Chooses Dairy Promoters

ERIE (Erie Co.) — In Erie County, Dairy Princess Jennifer Braddock and Alternate Dairy Princess Alice Hammond promote the dairy industry with the help of Lisa Hayes, dairy maid, and Jill Shipegi, dairy ambassador.

The pageant was held recently at the Erie Zoo with television weatherman Mark Parker serving as master of ceremonies. Many non-farm people attended the pageant and cheered at the celebrity milking contest.

Jennifer, the daughter of Shirley Braddock of Albion, is a senior at Northwestern High School. She is active in band, 4-H, girl's state, and she works on her grandparents' Aryshire dairy farm and at a local day care center.

Alice, daughter of Jim and Hildy Hammond of Corry, is a senior at Corry High School. She helps on her parents' Holstein Farm and is an honor student, active in band, and 4-H.

Both Lisa Hayes, daughter of Cynthia and Kenneth Hayes of Edinboro, and Jill Shipegi, daughter of Larry and Sue Shipegi of Cranesville, attend General McClane High School and work on their family dairy farms.

Outgoing Erie County Dairy Princess Brandie Jo Behringer crowned Jennifer.

Gap Evident Between Knowledge, Behavior In Women's Health

PITTSBURGH (Allegheny Co.) — "Do as I say, not as I do," may be the current message of millions of women. A new campaign for educating women about the relationship between preventive nutrition services and a reduced risk of heart disease, breast cancer and osteoporosis aims to change this message. The Nutrition & Health Campaign for Women is sponsored by The American Dietetic Association, Weight Watchers International and National Dairy Council.

Statistics show that this year 500,000 women will die of heart disease and another 180,000 will learn they have breast cancer. Women are four times more likely than men to develop osteoporosis, a bone-thinning condition that leads to fractures.

Compare this information to the findings of a May 1993 Gallup Survey of a representative sampling of women over age 18. The survey indicates:

* Eight out of 10 women indicated they were aware of the relationship between diet and health but one-third of those polled say they do nothing to lower their chances of developing heart disease, cancer or osteoporosis.

* Nearly half described themselves as overweight and one in four reported smoking cigarettes even though these were considered risk factors for cancer and heart disease.

* Sixty-two percent reported they are in fair or poor physical shape and 34% said there is nothing they do regularly to keep fit.

* Women, 50 years and older were more likely than younger women to say their diet is healthy.

* Those who said they eat a healthy diet and participate regularly in physical activity were more likely to be pleased with the way they looked.

* Six percent of those surveyed had osteoporosis and 13% had a family member with osteoporosis. Eighty-five percent of this group believed they could lower their own risk of developing this disease.

According to Judy Dodd RD, a registered dietitian with Dairy & Nutrition Council Mid East, closing the gaps between women's knowledge and behavior has a special significance to the health of the population. She notes, "Prevention is a major component in controlling health care costs. Nutrition is important since it is the cornerstone of a healthy lifestyle. The majority of food and nutrition decisions are made by women. Younger children, especially females, frequently look to the mother or other females as role models for health and nutrition behaviors."

The gaps between knowledge and behavior have roots in both science and tradition. Women traditionally concentrate on the health behaviors of other family members first! This applies to food as well as to taking time for preventive measures such as regular medical check-ups and exercise. The scientific gap is closing as researchers study and report on the issues unique to the health of women.

As a first step in closing the gaps, send for your free copy of Every Woman's Guide to Health and Nutrition. Send a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope to Dairy & Nutrition Council Mid East, 9380 McKnight Road Suite 106A, Pittsburgh, PA 15237-5953.

New Twist On Old Advice
Calcium Prevents Kidney Stones

Kidney stone sufferers have long been told to avoid milk and other dairy products. But a recent study in the New England Journal of Medicine suggests that just the opposite is true: calcium may help prevent kidney stones. The study followed 45,619 men aged 40 to 75 years old and found that men who get lots of calcium in their diets have a 44 percent lower risk of developing stones than those who consume little calcium. Dr. Gary C. Curhan of Harvard School of Public Health believes that adults concerned about developing kidney stones should get the recommended dietary allowance of calcium. The RDA for calcium for adults 25 years of age and older is 800 mg or the equivalent of three glasses of milk daily.

Enter Maryland Make It With Wool Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The summer heat may be sweltering, but fall fabrics and yarns have hit store shelves, providing the raw material and inspiration you'll need to create an entry for the 1993 Maryland Make It Yourself With Wool Contest. Entry forms must be postmarked no later than September 11; the contest will be held October 16 at the Carroll County Agriculture Center in Westminster.

Competitors of any age can enter the contest, which is sponsored by the Maryland Sheep Breeders Association, the Cooperative Extension Service-Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources and a variety of other organizations.

Age divisions range from preteen (age 12 and under) through adult. Teen-age participants, ages 13 through 16, may enter the junior division, while older teens and young adults (ages 17 through 24) may compete in the senior division. Competitors age 25 and older are eligible for the adult division.

Each division includes classes for outfits that have been sewn, knitted, crocheted or woven, using at least 60 percent wool fiber. Preteens may enter jumpers, dresses, vests, jackets, skirts, pants, sweaters, shirts or two-piece outfits. Other contestants may make suits, dresses, coats or other outfits of their choice.

Winners will receive prizes that include gift certificates; sewing equipment, notions and supplies; fabric; sewing videos, books and magazines; and more.

Entry forms are available from local Cooperative Extension Service offices; phone numbers are included under county (and Baltimore City) listings in the blue pages of the telephone directory. Other sources of entry forms include most area fabric and yarn shops.

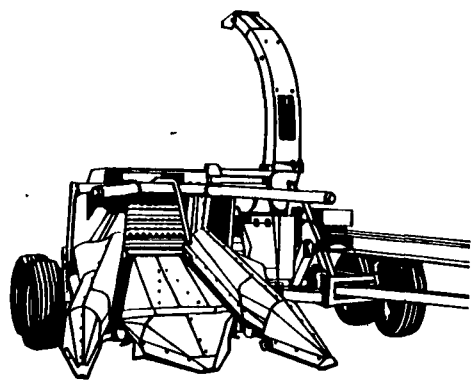
GEHL

Versatility Champ!



With a horsepower rating for maximum 200 hp, the Gehl 1060 featues exclusive patented spinner delivery system that "jets" material from cylinder to blower in a continuous flow. Other features include overrunning clutch; in-head hydraulic knife sharpener that allows in-field knife sharpening and refacing of cutterbar, using tractor hydraulics; and single-station cutterbar adjustment. Auto-Max system, speed monitor, metal detector, haylage water tank optional! It's totally versatile! Make us prove it with a demonstration.

GEHL SKID LOADERS WIN HANDS DOWN

Precise bucket and drive control is easy with Gehl's exclusive Load-Trak T-bar hand controls. Optional hand/foot controls also available.

- Tilt-back cab -- Provides easy engine access for servicing.
- Quick-Lock attachment system -- For fast attachment changes.
- Eight models -- With SAE operating capacities from 750 to 2,050 lbs. to meet your needs.
- A choice of gas or diesel engines -- Rated from 20 to 60 horsepower.
- Large selection of attachments -- Means versatility.

Much more not listed and more will be added by sale day. We will be selling with (2) auctioneers at a time for part of the sale due to the size of the sale. We would like to extend an invitation to each and everyone to attend our 5th absolute auction without reserve to be held in St. Anne, IL. More equipment will be added by sale day due to early advertising deadlines. For those who have not attended one of our previous sales, we sell everything on sale day without reserve or minimum. Most of our tractors and combines have been thru our shop and have been serviced. Most of the equipment will be on our lot and ready for inspection on Aug. 20th. We are open from 7 AM to 6 PM 6 days a week and closed on Sunday. We have excellent loading facilities and help available to prepare your equipment for transport. Trucking is available anywhere in the USA or Canada. Lunch is available on the premises. This will be one of the largest opportunities to buy equipment at absolute auction this fall. This will be an event you will not want to miss as a buyer, dealer, farmer, or just to learn the real value of equipment. So grab your wife, kids, friends, and neighbors and come spend the day with us. Bring along a truck and haul your purchases if you like, a raincoat in case it rains (and it sure has often this year) and of a course a checkbook or two. Looking forward to seeing you Sept. 1st and wishing you a safe harvest.

FARM AUCTION

180-HI-GRADE HOLSTEINS-180

SATURDAY, AUGUST 28
11 AM

Red Gate Farm, Hamilton, N.Y. will have Burton Auction Service sell their milking herd, close heifers and service age bulls on the farm located on Rt. 12-B - 4 miles South of Hamilton, N.Y. and 2 miles North of Earlville, N.Y. (58 mi. North of Binghamton, N.Y. and 25 mi. South of Utica, N.Y.)

180 Hi-Grade cattle including 160 milking age cows (15 Red & White Holsteins), 10 close or fresh heifers, 10 service age bulls (2 Red & White Holsteins). 42 cows fresh in last 90 days, 10 due Aug., 20 due Sept., 9 Oct., 13 Nov., 9 Dec., 15 Jan., 15 Feb., 9 March.

Sales Manager's note: This is one of N.Y. State's finest herds selling right here in the Fall when good cows are apt to be scarce. Over ½ the herd are 1st and 2nd calf. Figured on milk sold, the herd average would be over 18,000M. Majority of herd is calf-hood vaccinated, also have had 9-way, Lepto and rabies shots. Necessary animals will be vet checked for pregnancy. Cows milking up to 104 lbs. a day with many milking in the 80's and 90's. Catalogs at ringside, including recent milk weights. The Masker's are excellent caretakers - you'll find well attached udders, along with quality feet and legs. Cattle will be tested sale day for out-of-state buyers and should be able to move in 3 to 4 days. The Maskers are looking forward to a little vacation after many years of hard work - reason for selling. Don't miss this sale if you like good cattle.

Lunch Available

Cattle sold in pole barn. Trucking available anywhere.

Terms: Cash or good check day of sale - nothing to be removed until settled for. Selling by number - Positive I.D. required.

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — The competition was tough during the Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Roundup held at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds.

More than 80 county 4-H members and their animals competed at the roundup, which was judged by Terry Rawn of Charlestown, W. Va.

The big winner in the competition for Ayrshires was Heath A. Ocker of Shippensburg, who won the grand champion and senior champion titles with his senior three-year-old Ockerdale Champ Jaime Joyce. He also won the reserve grand champion award with his summer yearling Ockerdale Milk Machine Julie.

Many of the same winners also won awards in the junior segment of the roundup.

Southcentral FFA Dairy Show Held

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Jack Rotz and Christopher Reichard were some of the big winners during the Southcentral District FFA Dairy Show held at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds.

Rotz, who is a member of the Blue Ridge FFA chapter in Franklin County, was named the grand champion fitter of the show. He competed against 13 other contestants in the fitting contest to win that award.

Reichard, who also is a member of the Blue Ridge chapter, was chosen as the grand champion showperson. He competed against 17 other entrants.

For their victories, both Reichard and Rotz received show halters from Art Staver of Pioneer Hi-Bred International Inc.

In the Brown Swiss competition, the grand champion was Joy Hess of the New Oxford FFA

Jack Rotz, at halter, received the master fitter award. Diane Myers, Cumberland Co. dairy princess presented the ribbons, and Art Staver, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, presented a show halter to both the master showman and the master fitter.

Cumberland 4-H Dairy

In the showing and fitting event, the grand champion and senior champion shower and fitter was Elizabeth Walton, with Melanie Dietrich of Newburg in as the reserve grand and the reserve senior champion.

The champion intermediate shower and fitter was David Day of Shippensburg. Rebecca Corman won the reserve title in the intermediate event.

Sarah Day of Shippensburg was the champion junior shower and fitter and Scott Walton of Carlisle was the reserve junior champion.

BIG DUTCHMAN PROFIT-TIER® CAGE SYSTEMS

THEY BOTH HAVE INTELLIGENT DESIGN

Our cage support system has been designed and engineered with tested technology. This superior suspension makes the superstructure of the cage row stronger and better aligned from end to end.

This is accomplished with a tie-in between the cage suspension rods, the cages and the stand in each section of cages.

Leg stands are screwed together, not merely clipped together. We feature a cage-to-stand mounting on tabs that are built into the leg stands

In addition, every cage section is attached to the feed trough which acts as an I-beam providing more rigidity and support. The trough is also attached to the leg stand. The result is superior strength, alignment and stability throughout the system.

All of these features allow us to use a leg stand every 10 feet, significantly reducing building costs.

When you purchase your next cage system, buy the one that was designed and engineered to endure We offer the important features that make a cage system work better and last longer.

Directors Participate In Beef Feeding Seminar

SINKING SPRING (Berks Co.) — Recently F.M. Brown's area directors completed a three-day intensive training program on beef feeding and management.

The principle seminar speaker was Dr. Dan Fox, professor of animal science at Cornell University. Other speakers included Dr. Walter Kennett, F.M. Brown's director of nutrition; Mark Anderson of Hoffman LaRoche; Peter Hausser of American Cyanamid; John Osborne of Diamond V Mills; and Dr. Carl Brown, sales manager for F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc.

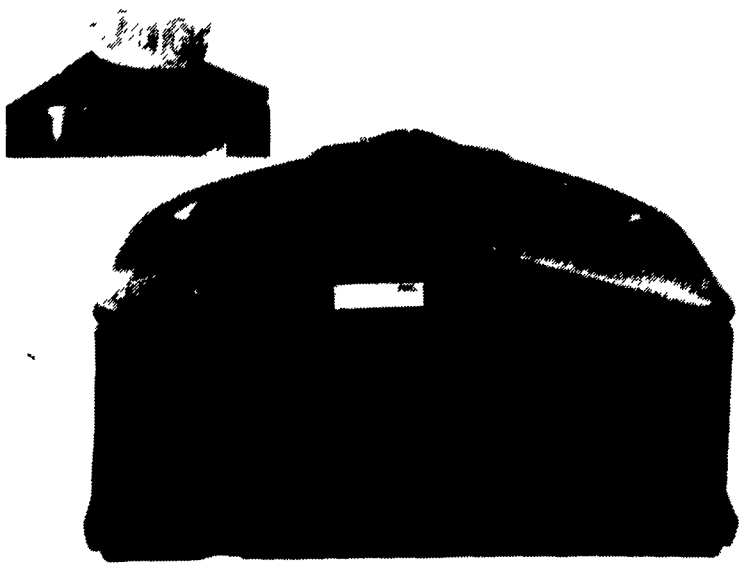
Fox started the program by discussing the nutrient requirements of growing and finishing steers. He reviewed the Cornell Net Carbohydrate and Protein System for growing and finishing beef cattle, and discussed how sex, frame size, hide thickness/condition, and actual dry matter intake influenced nutrient requirements. He emphasized how certain amino acids affect composition of tissue, and how knowledge of net energy and amino acid content of the feedstuffs can be used via the Cornell Beef Ration Balancer (now available from F.M. Brown's) to optimize growing and finishing steer diets. He demonstrated how various input costs such as the cost of silage vs shelled corn greatly influence the optimum economic rate at which beef cattle should be finished. Fox concluded his discussion by reviewing the beef cow/calf herd and the special requirements of Holstein beef. He emphasized there was excellent opportunities for both operations in eastern markets when they were managed correctly. A videotape of Fox's comments is available for F.M. Brown's beef customers through Brown's area directors.

Peter Hausser of American Cyanamid and John Osborne of Diamond V Mills each reviewed practical problems associated with starting new feeder steers. Hausser showed that the use of Aureo S 700 Crumbles in receiving rations results in $10 to $15 higher return per head. Osborne cited numerous research studies which showed stress steers had improved appetites and increased disease resistance when Diamond V XP Yeast Culture was included in the starting ration.

Mark Anderson of Hoffman LaRoche discussed the multiple values of Bovatec in beef rations. Feed efficiency and increased rate of gain top the list, but Bovatec also eliminates coccidiosis in cattle and reduces problems associated with acidosis in high starch, low fiber finishing rations.

Kennett Brown's director of nutrition, tied the whole program together by discussing how Brown's beef supplements utilize the concepts which were reported on by Fox and the other speakers. He emphasized the fact that at Brown's a great deal of time is spent on matching energy and mineral intake with the right quality and quality of degradable and undegradable protein. He reviewed Brown's Dairy Lean Program and the use of Brown's calf feeds as creep starter/starter rations.

As part of the seminar, a tour was held in the Fleetwood and Robesonia areas. Various beef and dairy beef starting/finishing operations were observed and discussed. On the tour four unique types of operations were reviewed, including a beef finishing feedlot, a Holstein finishing feedlot, an intensive pasture program, and a dairy feedlot where all bull calves are fed out as lean fast growing Holstein steers. All four farms were using various Brown's Supplements.



Noland Systems, Inc. has developed a new line of Jugs to water dairy livestock. There are three models available: the 101 DA with one drinking station, the 202 DA with two drinking stations, and the 404 DA with four drinking stations.

Waterers Meet Dairy Needs

CARLISLE, Iowa — Working with dairy officials, Noland Systems, Inc. has developed a new line of Jugs to water dairy livestock.

There are three models available: the 101 DA with one drinking station, the 202 DA with two drinking stations, and the 404 DA with four drinking stations.

The Jug has proven itself to be a trouble-free, energy efficient, and helps provide a year-round supply of fresh water for all types of livestock.

To obtain dairy approval, the following features were incorporated:

• No back-siphoning. The dairy approved Jugs maintain a minimum air gap of one inch between the water level in the tank and the water inlet. As a result, back-siphoning of water is prevented even if the float valve should become stuck wide open with an inlet pressure of 80 psi. This keeps potentially tainted water from flowing back into the farm water supply which could contaminate milk and milk equipment. This protects Jug users' families as well.

• Inspection cover. The dairy approved Jug is outfitted with an easy-to-remove inspection cover so that milk inspectors can see the water inlet and air gap without having to remove the lid. Two wing nuts keep the cover tightly sealed when the Jug is operating.

• Sloped design. The dairy approved Jug has a sloped design to lead spillover away from the Jug water source. This prevents runoff water from filling the cavity under tank, providing additional protection for the farm water supply.

• Standard features. The water from the Jug is fresh and clean because of the unique draw tube/trap design which keeps feed debris from accumulating in the tank. Animals take to the Jug immediately and drink from it in a way that is natural to them. Adjusting the water level for training is done by simply turning the adjustment screw with a coin.

Knight Spreader Available

BRODHEAD, Wis. — Knight Manufacturing introduced the new "Industrial" 8030 Series ProTwin Slinger Spreader.

This 3,000-gallon, 600-bushel heavyweight side discharge spreader is available as an oscillating tandem tow-type unit or for tandem axle truck mount.

The new patent-pending twin auger design features two 24-inch diameter augers. The left auger moves material forward to the discharge hammers. The slightly raised right auger moves material rearward, keeping the left auger evenly charged with material and also reducing pressure and overloading in the front of the unit. Material bridging is virtually eliminated and a fast, evenly controlled spread rate is obtained, even in tough industrial and animal waste materials.

The front left-side discharge features 15 high-speed, free-swinging, forged-steel hammers which deliver a smooth even spread pattern of material in 20-50 foot widths in most materials.

Standard features of the patent-pending ProTwin 8030 Slinger include an enclosed oil bath drive, remote grease fittings, 1,000 rpm constant velocity slip clutch PTO, 10-bolt hubs on 3 3/8-inch diameter spindles, ¼ -inch copper bearing auger hoppers and front panel, 7-gauge copper bearing sides and rear panel, and 3/8-inch thick sectional auger flighting on the massive twin augers.

The 3900 flex-wing... good news for today's farming.

It's time to take a new look at disk harrows. Especially the new Case International 3900 flex-wing disk harrow. It's the easiest-pulling, level-est-working disk harrow you can hook up to today's high-horsepower tractors.

Here's how the 3900 meets performance, reliability and durability challenges like nothing else in the field:

■ It offers superior gang strength from a massive welded tubular unibody frame — good for years of trouble-free operation.

■ A unique self-leveling spring-loaded hitch transfers weight between tractor and disk to maintain ground-hugging performance regardless of ridges and gullies. The 3900 stirs and mixes soil, chemicals and residue consistently — even at high operating speeds. This promotes uniform germination.

■ A new mechanical stop depth control eliminates variances common with master/slave systems. It's great for uniform incorporation.

■ Earth Metal® crimp-center blades give you sharp penetration and an easy pull that saves fuel. Plus extra durability that means fewer replacements.

Want more good news? Stop in today.

Lehmans Win Regional Conservation Award

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

DILLSBURG (York Co.) — When Rolla Lehman installed his first farm conservation measures, the move stirred some skepticism among his neighbors.

It was nearly 50 years ago that the northern York County farmer began converting from the block-style fields, then common, to planting in strips. Since then, the kinds of practices he instituted on the rich, rolling farmground near Dillsburg have become recognized as backbone programs of soil conservation.

Recently, Rolla and his wife, Esther were recognized for their half-decade of dedication to preserving the soil when they were named winners of the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award. The York County Conservation District nominated the Lehmans for the honor, awarded by the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Bay Education office.

"The District felt Rolla should be recognized for his outstanding work over the years. He's been a sort of conservation torchbearer in the community," said York County Conservation District manager Mark Kimmel. "Rolla always says and shows by example his belief that 'conservation doesn't cost, it pays'."

The Lehmans' award was presented during the state Association of Conservation Districts' July executive council meeting in Altoona. Also honored as regional winners for their soil conservation efforts were Mark and Sue Mapes, Mifflinburg, and Karen and Randy Hunstman, Martinsburg.

For having been selected as clean water award winners, Rolla and Esther were hosted recently on a tour of the Clagett Farm in Upper Marlboro, Md. The 285-acre Clagett Farm is owned and operated by the Chesapeake Bay Foundation as a educational showcase for sustainable agriculture practices. They were also given a bay tour on an oyster-dredging skipjack.

In 1991, the county district named him its conservation farmer of the year. He was also selected a Goodyear Award winner, a national conservation award sponsored by the Goodyear company and the National Association of Conservation Districts.

Rolla's interest in soil-saving agriculture techniques was spurred by a government program set up to train veterans returning home from service in World War II.

"My brother came back from service and decided he wanted to farm. The government had a program to provide schooling for veterans, and the one for agriculture education was held one night each week at Dillsburg High School," Rolla said. "I attended a lot of those meetings with him and it was there that the seed of conservation was planted in my mind."

Planting in strips and contours, use of sod waterways, and installation of tile drainage were in their infancy as agriculture practices. Rolla initially planted just part of the couple's 97-acre farm in simple strip, which he laid off himself since no technical assistance was then available.

"The only thing I would have done differently, looking back is to have gone to contour strips right away," he said.

In the ensuing years, nearly two miles of tile drainage have been installed in the fields to handle the plentiful "winter springs" scattered across the Lehmans' acreage. A sod waterway slows runoff on one of the steeper slopes.

Much of the tile installed in the early 1950s was put in with the help of Thomasville farmer Albert Bentz. Bentz owned a specialized piece of equipment which operated from a Ford tractor and both cut a trench and laid the clay tile pipe.

"Most of the tiling is still the original clay," said Lehman. "Only on occasion has a section needed replacement with plastic."

One of the tiled drain fields empties at the edge of the farm property and is used by adjoining neighbors as a partial feeder source for their attractive, backyard pond. The water draining out from beneath the contours of hay and corn, even after fairly abundant summer rains, is crystal clear.

An early user of minimum tillage, Lehman first tried the new practice to renovate a section of pasture. Some 15 or more years before minimum tillage became popular, he borrowed an early-type chisel plow, a piece of equipment that originated in the Midwest.

"This farm has lots of ironstone and was always hard on plows," he said. Lehman was so pleased with the results that he later purchased his own chisel plow.

"For a full 10 years, we never put a moldbooard in the ground," Lehman said. "Now, we do use a plow to turn the ground to start alfalfa, maybe three to eight acres a year. It can cut the roots of the mulberry bushes that take root in the fields better than minimum tillage."

Rolla and Esther Lehman review a pamphlet explaining the Chesapeake Bay Foundation's Clagett Farm, which they toured recently as regional winners of the Clean Water Award.

A sod waterway runs above the first contoured corn strip to slow runoff on one of the Lehmans' steeper slopes.

Rolla and Esther moved on to his home farm just a few months after their marriage. His father purchased the farm in 1922, four years before Rolla was born. The couple raised five children, all of whom have gone onto careers other than agriculture.

Even before Lehman began implementing conservation measures, the farm had another early innovation.

"We had running water in the house," he said of his childhood. "It was gravity flowed to the house and barn. We still have a spring in the basement."

For some years, Lehman continued the five-year crop rotation used by his father, planting two years of corn, then oats, wheat, and hay of timothy-clover mix.

"But I could never raise good oats," he said of the crop's difficulty in the heavy soil that can rarely be worked in the early, cool weather favored by the grain crop. As the couple's dairy herd grew, Lehman eliminated the oats and later the wheat, concentrating on herd feed of corn and hay.

While the Lehmans never looked back once they started adopting conservation improvements, Mother Nature once handed them a rather dramatic setback. In 1972, when Hurricane Agnes dumped some 15 inches of rain across the region, they had just finished installing a new section of tile drainage. With the soil still loose and not settled, the three-day downpour completely washed out the completed work.

"A neighbor told me I was crazy," he said. "But we got a dozer and high-lift back in and repaired the damage. These conservation measures are some of the best things I've ever done."

It was for Lehman's lifelong commitment to conservation and ongoing implementation of practices that earned him the District's recommendation for the state award. Lehman served the York County Conservation District as a director from 1957-1981. In that time, he has seen consistent strides being made in the move to conserve the nation's soils.

"Nutrient management has probably been the biggest change in that period of time," he said. "Minimum tillage is another."

On nutrient management, Lehman believes that the philosophy has come somewhat "full circle." He relates that when he was growing up, stackpiling manure until it could be spread at optimum times, spring and fall planting, was a common practice.

"Then the dairy regulations made it necessary for us to move manure out every day, to not hold it. Now, we're going back to the concept I grew up with."

Two years ago, the Lehmans took an additional improvement step on their land of grading and

NORTHEAST EGG PROMOTION CAMPAIGN

John H. Schwartz, Ph.D.
Lancaster County
Extension Director

The state egg associations from Maryland to Maine have long recognized the value of joining forces and working together to address common issues and concerns.

Based on this history, a group of Northeast egg producers have developed a Northeast Egg Promotion Campaign. The purpose of this regional product promotion campaign is to take advantage of some of the largest media markets in the country and communicate pro-egg messages to consumers.

This program is being funded through a portion of the discretionary checkoff dollars that are returned by the American Egg Board to the states. By combining resources from the Northeast states, the promotion campaign increases the effectiveness of egg promotion in the region.

Northeast egg producers are now able to target their consumers with the specific messages that are important to them. Remember, an individual needs to hear the same message three to seven times to remember just part of it.

The egg promotion campaign is building on the promotion programs of the American Egg Board by adding a regional focus. In addition, it allows egg producers in the region to coordinate a joint response to the public when a crisis strikes and provides a framework to enhance state promotion programs.

The goal of the program is to convince targeted customers, consumers, and influencers that eggs are good and good for you. The first year of the program is focusing on media relations in the following five key markets: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington.

The media is a critical audience, because it is a vehicle to consumers. By generating positive media coverage on the benefits of eggs in major broadcast and print media throughout the Northeast, the egg industry's message will be communicated to consumers.

This will be done by developing relationships with food, health, and consumer journalists, establishing an overall spokesperson for the egg industry in the region, capitalizing on appearances by any American Egg Board sponsored spokesperson in the region, coordinating the industry's response to the media during a crisis to make sure that it is consistent and effective, and maintaining ongoing contact with targeted reporters to generate coverage on eggs.

The program is directed by a board of governors representative of all the states in the Northeast. These governors represent egg producers, marketers, and industry leaders. The Board of Governors approves the policies and programs and oversee the budget for the Northeast Egg Promotion.

The program has begun with many accomplishments. Christine Bushway has become the spokeswoman for the campaign. She has made numerous appearances on radio and TV shows, telling everyone about the goodness of eggs.

Eggs have been featured in many big city newspapers. These stories have included facts on nutrition, egg production, and receipts. In-store egg promotion programs have been test marketed. The program is meeting with great success, especially in the suburban markets.

Continued efforts should bring even greater returns. The Northeast Egg Promotion Campaign has shown by working together we will accomplish more than by working individually. This is helping all egg producers to receive the most impact from their egg promotion checkoff dollars. Your continued support of this cooperative ventured is very important to the future of the egg industry.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Egg promotion: An investment in your future."

Auction Company Participates In National Convention

PLYMOUTH MEETING (Montgomery Co.) — Five outstanding advertising awards were presented to representatives from the Kenneth A. Geyer Auction Company at the National Auctioneers Association Convention held in Denver, Colo., recently. The convention was attended by more than 1,100 auction professionals.

Four of the awards were presented for brochures on individual real estate auctions held between June 1, 1992 and June 1, 1993. These awards were in the categories of real estate auction, commercial/industrial auction, and specialty auction.

The fifth award, best of show, was given to the company for their business promotion package. The best of show award depicts the best piece presented in all 42 categories of the contest.

Geyer representatives not only attended the convention to receive awards, they also contributed to the association by participating in one of the educational workshops.

Ken Geyer, president of Kenneth A. Geyer Auction Company, instructed a session in the real estate auction portion of the convention. Geyer demonstrated the vital role buyer confidence plays in a successful auction and explained that many auction companies may overlook this element when marketing their auctions.

To emphasize his points, Geyer suggested that all auction companies practice full disclosure, prepare bidder packages, present title policies and agreements of sale, staff open houses, and provide answers to all pertinent questions. He said, "If you establish buyer confidence, you will have successful auctions."

leveling the banks along their road frontage. With a grin, Lehman noted that the leveling was done "for health reasons."

Excessive moisture that year weakened the rather steep banks along the road past their beautifully-restored farmhouse. As Esther mowed one day with the riding mower, a bank gave way beneath her. Though not seriously injured, she was pinned there by the mower until a neighbor passing by freed her, and still carries a scar from the accident. Soil graded from one bank was used to fill and level the other, leaving a flat, smooth, and safer mowing edge.

The Lehmans have since added rows of Acer Rubin maple trees along each side of the road, for beautification and to help restore the roadside to its look of earlier years. Old photos they have of the area and their church nearby show stately trees bordering the quiet country road.

They've also planted 19 Douglas Fir trees along another boundary of the farm, after filling and grading a hole they wanted to eliminate as a potential danger. Lehman notes that as equipment grew larger over the years, removing fencerows was practiced on most farms. Today, there's a trend toward reestablishing more trees and fencerow-like cover areas.

Through all his conservation measures on the farm Lehman has had to work around some rather imposing structures located on his acreage. Three large metal towers support the Keystone Power Line that cuts diagonally across the farm's acreage. The line carries electricity produced from a large power plant in Indiana County to Philadelphia Electric Company's Peach Bottom atomic generating complex, where it is fed into the utility's power grid. In addition, smaller power lines to supply the area also cross the property. Having lived and farmed with the lines most of his life, Lehman views them not as a burden, but as just a part of the convenience of electricity that happens to cross his land.

"I've always been very impressed with the amount of things Rolla has done, not just in conservation but in other areas of agriculture leadership," said Dave Kann, soil technician with the county district. Kann was instrumental in putting together the award nomination that won the Lehmans their regional honors.

"It's equally important that he takes conservation information and shares it through all the other activities in which they're involved," Kann said.

Lehman is a 50-year member of the Grange, president of the York County Farmers' Forum, and served several terms as York Farm Credit director. The Dillsburg Lions Club made him its "tailwagger" member for this year and he has taught Sunday School for 40 years.

When it comes to conservation leadership, Dave Kann said, "Rolla Lehman just promotes and lives agriculture."

The Best of the Best

The Wheeling 2 oz. Seal of Quality coating represents the best of the best in the Wheeling Corrugating line of premium galvanized roofing and siding. Every panel that carries the 2 ounce coating assures you are getting the toughest, the most durable, the most corrosion resistant galvanized sheet available in today's marketplace.

2oz. Seal of Quality Wheeling

Genuine Old-Time Quality

Every Wheeling 2 oz sheet is manufactured from heavy gauge steel topped with an extra thick zinc coating, and formed into profiles that contribute strength and good looks Build with a Wheeling 2 oz sheet and you'll be working with the kind of durability and dependability that s been a standard in the industry for almost 100 years

The Proof is in the Process

The performance behind the Wheeling 2 oz Seal of Quality is possible because of Wheeling s patented Cook Norteman manufacturing process This technology allows a more consistent quality product, and a more uniform coating with unsurpassed zinc adhesion The process takes more handling and more time, but the end result is a super premium panel that has its own limited 20 year performance warranty

Dimensions and Specifications

If your building plans call for roofing and siding materials with exceptional corrosion resistance minimum upkeep and old time toughness you ll want to check the specs of Wheeling 2 oz Seal of Quality galvanized

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds
BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.
MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.
ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that
- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

Have you tried toasted grains?

Consider these advantages over traditional roasting methods:

- Consistent by-pass proteins and low moisture levels.
- Improved energy density of your rations.
- Excellent quality control.
- Exchange programs with feed mills.
- Economical storage, rolling and grinding available.
- We also buy corn and soybeans

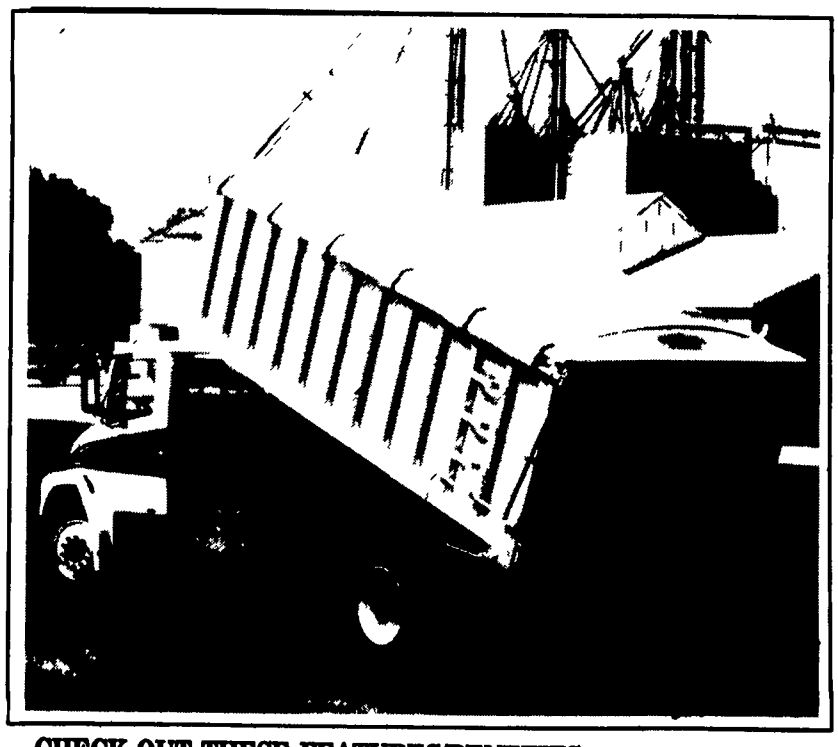
In grain bodies, aluminum makes Sense.



Eby Aluminum Agri-Dump Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:

- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance-free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

Eby's time-tested design is available in lengths to 24' for grain bodies and 10½ ' for general purpose dump bodies. A long list of standard features such as tarp rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented by a full range of custom options, including tailgates, Wahpeton tarps and grain chutes.
When you select your next grain body or general purpose dump body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.

CHECK OUT THESE FEATURES/BENEFITS
- Up to 40% lighter than steel, for greater payload
- Designed for long life
- Resale value
- Corrosion resistant, never needs painting
- Appearance to complement any truck
- Complete list of popular options, including tailgates, tarps and sides.

SILO BOOSTER®

GET MORE MILEAGE FROM YOUR SILAGE

- Reduces Supplement Purchases
- Most Nutrients Per Acre
- No Lost Nutrients

Master Mix®

Quality silage is one component of your feeding program that you can't afford to ignore. While it can reduce the amount of purchased protein and grain used to supplement a ration, silage also provides livestock with the most nutrients per acre of any feedstuff choice. However, nature and other uncontrollable factors can frequently cause spoilage bacteria in silage to take control. As a result, nutrients are lost through gas production, heating and protein degradation.

Master Mix® SILO-BOOSTER® Silage Inoculants prevent this kind of damage by providing a combination of superior lactic acid producing bacteria which work together to protect high-quality forage. So, if you want the benefits and potential profits that quality silage can provide, incorporate the use of SILO-BOOSTER into your silage management program.

Programs Help Environment, Save Money

NEWARK, Del. — University of Delaware Cooperative Extension educational programs in nutrient management helped Delaware farmers cut nitrogen applications from fertilizer and manure last year by more than 200,000 pounds on the sandy soils of Sussex County. Besides helping protect groundwater from potential nitrate contamination, participating farmers saved an estimated $11 an acre.

More than half of this reduced nitrogen load was achieved in the Inland Bays area as part of the state's We C.A.R.E. program. The letters stand for Comprehensive Agricultural Resources Effort — a cooperative five-year project involving the University of Delaware, Sussex Conservation District, Sussex County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service and Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control.

In 1992, the We C.A.R.E. team established nutrient management plans with 28 farmer cooperators on 25,867 acres — 42 percent of the cropland in the designated area. Intensive nutrient management activities include presidedress soil nitrate testing, manure analysis and spreader calibrations, and on-farm demonstrations.

"The Inland Bays area is a good example of the Delaware Cooperative Extension water quality program," said Tom Williams, extension water quality specialist.

BAUER

Comprehensive tests on the retraction speed regularity of irrigation machines were carried out by the French Chamber of Agriculture.

In field tests on farms, irrigation machines of 19 different manufacturers were tested. The BEST results were reached by BAUER Rainstars with Ti Turbine Drive.

100% of the tests showed optimum retraction speed regularity with only 6 psi loss. Uniformity along the irrigation strip is directly dependent on retraction speed regularity. The results of variations found in other makes will mean considerable losses in terms of yields, water and energy consumption.

1840/1845C CASE RUBBER-TRACK SKID STEERS

Work when and where you need them

On more surfaces
Improved flotation lets Case rubber-track skid steers work on soils, sand or gravel and even mud

More comfortably
Rubber tracks provide a smooth ride with less bounce • also less chance of tire punctures

More places
Excellent for working on dirt and concrete lots • rubber tracks cause less ground disturbance • can drive on bedded areas without sinking in

More of the year
Work through wet muddy conditions typical in spring and fall

- Better traction
- Improved flotation

case

- Quiet operation
- Reduced surface damage
- Smoother ride
- Tire protection

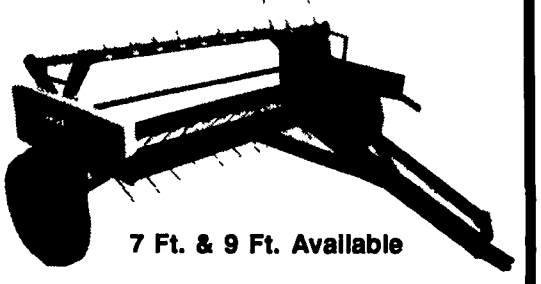
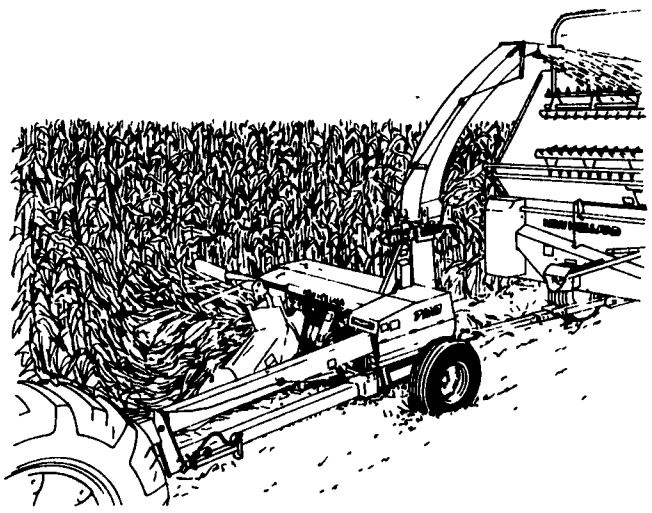
ZIMMERMAN HEAVY DUTY HAY TEDDER - 790 SERIES



7 Ft. & 9 Ft. Available

MODEL 790



HIGH PERFORMANCE LOW HASSLES

The high performance of the Model 790 forage harvester starts with the massive 12-knife cutterhead. It delivers a fine, uniform chop for high quality feed. The "790" is built tough to keep chopping season after season. And routine maintenance is easy to keep hassles to a minimum. Stop in and see for yourself.

The CLAAS corn header is in a class of its own, and sets the standard for the industry.

The six row header features folding outer dividers so you stay within 10 foot width. This makes road travel safer standard.

The dividers have a very low profile to ensure that hanging or battered corn can be picked up cleanly and transported smoothly to the compression rollers. The deflectors stop the header from pushing the corn forward and allows cutting of the crop close to the ground.

THE HARVESTING SPECIALIST

Now is the time to schedule your corn harvest with one of our CLAAS custom harvesters equipped with rollermill.

For a baler to produce silage balers, the design must be based on the know-how of a specialist. The CLAAS QUADRANT 1200 shows how silage bales have to look; highly compressed, accurately shaped and securely tied. Baled from wilted crops and then matured in the silage clamp to provide nutritious forage.

More and more farmers recognize the advantages offered by big bale silage; economic efficiency and profitability are ensured and the nutritive value of the farm-produce forage is utilized to the full.

LEASE THE 85 HP TRACTOR THAT COMBINES POWER, PERFORMANCE AND RELIABILITY

The innovative new 16-speed PowrQuad Transmission gives you powershift performance to deliver the right speed choice for any operation.

Shift on-the-go into one of four synchronized ranges. Then powershift up or down as conditions require.

The smooth, clutchless shifting within each range lets you reach specific speeds quickly to achieve a higher work output.

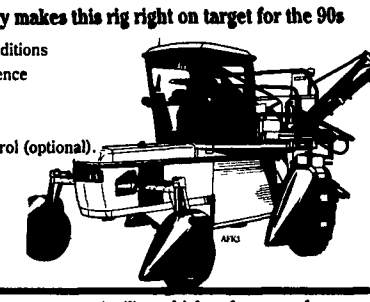
- New hydraulically-adjustable rear wheels let you change tread spacing on-the-go.
- Choose a single front axle, or a new wide front axle with spacings from 79 to 119 inches.



What makes our bales ideal for your operation? Start with the pickup. It reduces chafing because the low profile minimizes hay lift. It's mounted close to the ground so you gain good ground gauging and clean crop retrieval, too. A large feed opening lets you work in a variety of crops and field conditions. At the same time it's tolerant to crop moisture, large bunches of hay, or foreign objects in the windrow.

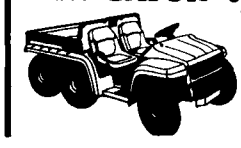
NEW GATOR™ 6X4 UTILITY VEHICLE



STOP IN AND ASK FOR A TEST DRIVE!

There have always been two types of utility vehicles: those gentle enough to operate on-turf, and those with the brawn and muscle to perform in off-road situations. Until now, that is. John Deere introduces the Gator 6x4 and 4x2, two utility vehicles at home off the road or on the turf. And the best at performing in either environment.

NEW! Exclusive design produces best-ever bales

The unique New Holland Models 650 and 660 Roll-Belt™ round balers make the best quality bales ever. Tight bales—dense bales. Good-looking, square-shouldered bales that hold up to the weather. The patented Roll-Belt design means fast, sure core formation, even in the toughest crops. The adjustable hydraulic belt-tensioning system puts maximum bale density control at your fingertips. And, you can choose from three optional automatic tying mechanisms for the smoothest package ever.

NH 144 Windrow Inverter

LEFTOVER - SPECIAL PRICE!

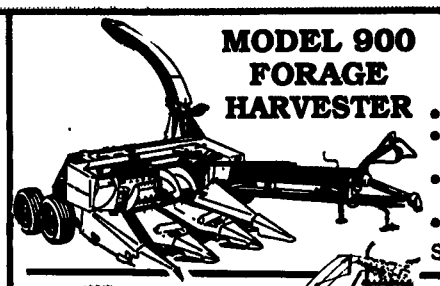
FOB New Holland

The New Holland Model 144 windrow inverter can save your hay crop by turning it over to dry, without losing valuable leaves. Get your hay out of the field sooner, before it rains. Or, if it's been rained on, dry it quickly and gently. Make your hay more valuable with the "144".



MODEL 900 FORAGE HARVESTER

TAKE CONTROL OF YOUR HARVEST

The Model 900 forage harvester puts you in control of your harvest:

- Rugged 21-inch, 12-knife cutterhead for a uniform chop.
- Exclusive flip-up feedrolls provide convenient access to the shearbar and smooth roll scraper.
- Electromagnetic clutches provide instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Optional Metalert® II metal detector protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.

Stop in and let us show you how the Model 900 puts you in control.

HIGH PERFORMANCE LOW HASSLES

The high performance of the Model 790 forage harvester starts with the massive 12-knife cutterhead. It delivers a fine, uniform chop for high quality feed. The "790" is built tough to keep chopping season after season. And routine maintenance is easy to keep hassles to a minimum. Stop in and see for yourself.

RAIN OR SHINE

The New Holland Model 166 windrow inverter speeds drying time as it gently lifts, fluffs and turns windrows without roughing-up the hay. And keeping more of the protein-rich leaves intact means you'll get high-quality hay into the bale or silo fast!

The Model 166 features:

- 65-inch Super-Sweep™ pickup
- Adjustable pickup wind-guard and discharge chute
- East-to-lift overcenter handle
- Optional hydraulic drive
- Optional hydraulic pickup lift

451 Sicklebar Mower - 3 Used In Stock

RUFF-TUFF POLY SILO LINERS for Upright Silos

Now With New Expansion Ring For Easy Installation

If Your Silo Needs New Life...
Try Our Poly Silo Liners

-THE ADVANTAGE OF A POLY LINER-
- Spoilage is reduced around doors.
- Feed is exposed to less oxygen - better fermentation.
- Allows storage of high moisture grains or dry grains in a conventional silo.
- Delays repair or replacement of corroded silos.
- Prevents corrosive acids from contacting silo wall - extends silo life.
- Quick installation.
- Effectively seals silos from air and weather.

The Liners Are Manufactured To Fit Most Standard Diameter Silos.

SILO UNLOADERS Silo-Matic FEEDING SYSTEMS

"IT IS TIME TO ONCE AGAIN GET SERIOUS ABOUT STORING YOUR VALUABLE FEEDS!!!"

The recent "innovations" and temporary methods of storing your grains and forages are just not protecting your feeds like they should, nor are they really efficient.

Research and practical experience has shown that "the tower silo has never been equalled in its ability to protect your forage quality." And remember... "on most dairy farms, forage quality is the single most important factor affecting profit."

Contact us soon to be sure you get on our schedule to have your poured concrete tower silo constructed in time for your corn silage harvest...

No used silos!
No rebuilt silos!
No pre-owned silos!
ALL NEW FOR YOU!

"This Is The Kind Of Silo You Need For This Fall's Corn Silage!"

Sollenberger Silos Corp.

New Ultimate EXT.™ The Breakthrough Diet That Helps Her Add Several Pounds A Day.

When it comes to weight control and eating, dairy cows aren't like most people. A successful cow's diet should produce more pounds, not less, and her body weight needs to stay up after freshening.

Our new dairy feed works that way: introducing Ultimate EXT™ from Purina® Ultimate EXT helps cows produce more milk: an average of five more pounds a day in over 14,000 cows. By helping cows reduce body weight loss after calving, Ultimate EXT also improves body condition which can enhance breeding efficiency.

To put more weight on your bottom line, ask us about new Ultimate EXT. It turns good cows into great ones.
